TO FORCE DARDANELLESThree Battleships On Way

War Craft

BOTH SIDES CONFIDENT

Part of Fleet Re-Enters Straits
But Unfavorable Weather
Prevents Bombardment

HOLD NEUTRAL STEAMERS

LONDON, Mar. 20.—(10:15 p. m.)

Undaunted by the loss of the battleships Bouvet, Ocean and Irresistible the allies are going ahead with their attempt to force the Dardanelles, confident that success will attend their efforts.

On their side, the Turks express confidence that the forts and the mines in the straits will be able to keep out the ships of the allies.

Repairing Damaged Ships.

The French battleship Henri IV, and the British battleships Queen and Implacable already are on their way to the east to replace the ships sunk by the mines and those ships which were damaged are undergoing repairs on the spot. Thus, within a few days at the latest the fleet will be as formidable as ever, while the Russian Black Sea squadron is believed to be ready to co-operate.

Except in the case of the Bouvet, of whose crew only 64 were saved, the casualties suffered in the bombardment of Thursday are said to be light. The British admiralty tonight published the losses among the officers on the Irresistible and although the ship was sunk and the crew had to be transferred under a hot fire, the list contains the names of only four officers killed and one severely wounded.

Bombardment Not Repeated.

Part of the fleet re-entered the straits yesterday but owing to the unfavorable weather the bombardment of the day before was not repeated and probably the only object of the warships was to prevent the Turks from repairing the damage already done. The admiralty states that steps are being taken to deal with the mines but experts warn the public that so long as the Turks have mines to set free in the strong current which rushes through the straits the danger, of course, is known but with a big fleet operating some of the ships must enter the area thus mined, and, lying across the straits to fire broadsides offer a large target to floating explosives.

The intentions as to the landing of a force are closely guarded but it is known that an army of considerable size is ready to attack the Turkish forces along the Dardanelles when the admirals advise that the moment has arrived.

No Important Operations.

Although fighting of more or less intensity is always in progress along the eastern and western fronts there have been no very important operations during the last few days. The Germans claim small successes against the British near St. Eloi and against the French at Notre Dame de Lorette, north of Arras, and to have repulsed several French attacks in Champagne, the Argonne forest and the Vosges. But the French communication issued in the day says that nothing of sufficient importance to report has happened.

In north Poland there have been several affairs of the outposts but neither army apparently is attempting any large operations while the ground remains soft, unless the Russian movement turns out to be more important than it at present appears to be, namely a cavalry raid.

The Austrians it is said have been reinforced in Bukovina and they report that they have repulsed Russian attacks there and in the Carpathians, although in the latter regions it has been generally understood that it was the Austrians and Germans who were acting on the offensive.

Hold Neutral Steamers.

Neutral steamers in European waters are having rather an uncomfortable time. The British have seized or are holding several, including the Maracas, which are suspected of having contraband for Germany. The Germans besides seizing two Scandinavian oil steamers in the Baltic, have just taken the Dutch Steamer Zaanstroom, loaded with eggs for England to Zebrugge.

Holland has formally protested to Great Britain and France against the order prohibiting the movement of goods to and from German ports.

A German aviator passed over Deal today but was driven off after dropping bombs which fell into the sea perilously close to the American bark Manga Reva.

War News Summarized

The operation of the allied fleet in the Dardanelles, interest in which has been intensified by the powerful resistance of the Turkish forts and the disaster to three of the allies' battleships, have been delayed by the unfavorable weather conditions but it is expected that they will be developed in full force just as soon as warships now on the way to replace those sunk join the fleet.

The fighting on land is continuous, particularly in the eastern war zone. In Poland the Russians claim to have forced the Germans back into their own territory after the Tauraggen engagement and they announce also the capture of Memel. Elsewhere in the Carpathians and eastern Galicia the Russians report successes and declare that a sortie by the Przemyśl garrison was repulsed. Vienna's account of this sortie is to the effect that strong Russian forces were encountered in an easterly direction and that the Russians were forced to retire after an engagement.

In France the Germans have made a gain over the British in the region of St. Eloi and report also that they have repulsed French attacks in Champagne, the Argonne forest and in the Vosges. The French war office, on the other hand, describes briefly the capture of German position in the Argonne after a two days' struggle.

According to the secretary of the Imperial German treasury, the subscriptions to the second German war loan are much greater than those to the first. Two loans amount to $3,000,000,000.

Both British and Germans are busy in the taking of neutral vessels. The British have detained a large number of steamers and in addition have captured a Spanish ship proceeding for a German port with a cargo of iron ore. No definite news have been received regarding developments in the Italian situation with respect to the war, but all Italian reserve officers born between the years 1882 and 1887 have been recalled under the colors for a limited period.

REPORT OF INSURRECTION IN SUDAN PROVES TO BE UNTRUE

TESTIFIES TO VOTING
22 TIMES IN ONE DAYWITNESS STATES HE CONFINED HIS OPERATIONS TO THREE PRECINCTS

Fred Eisner at Terre Haute Election Fraud Trial Says He Received, With One Exception, a Dollar for Each Time He Voted.

Indianapolis, Mar. 20.—A record for voting of twenty-two times in one day was claimed by Fred Eisner, who testified this afternoon in the Terre Haute election fraud trial. The witness testified that he confined his operations to three precincts and with one exception, received a dollar for each time he voted. He said he was cheated out of the other dollar "as the paymaster said I had made enough money already." Eisner was challenged only once he said.

Submit "Training School" Evidence. Evidence bearing on the alleged "training school for witnesses" which United States District Attorney Frank C. Bailey described in his opening statement also was introduced today.

"Hilton Redman, a defendant, came to me while the federal grand jury was in session and said that all the boys were sitting tight," testified William Hughes who has pleaded guilty. "He instructed me to keep under cover but if I were caught to keep on the election stuff. Hilton said he had seen all the boys but me and another in regard to the federal investigation."

Hughes also testified that he voted seven times. He said Sheriff Dennis Shea, a defendant, gave him an assumed name and paid him for three of the times he voted.

Says He Voted Six Times.

Albert Mast, another of the 88 who have pleaded guilty, testified that he was 21 years old on election day and that he celebrated by voting six times.

Most of the confessed fraudulent voters testified that they had been told to report on election morning at police headquarters where chief of police Holler gave them an order on a liverman for a horse and buggy. They said they received a list of voting places and cards bearing names and registration numbers which they were to vote from. E. E. Talbot, city comptroller and a defendant, in lots of eight or ten at a time. Each of the men in charge of a buggy was expected to get a partner and the two drove over Terre Haute, voting in every precinct they possibly could. At the end of the day the witnesses testified they returned to Talbot, who was located in the street commissioner's office, and were paid ten dollars each. In addition to Shea, the witnesses named George Sovern, Joseph Strauss, Edward Driscoll and John E. Green, all defendants, as either paying them for voting or handing out the card or check for which they received the money in the various precincts.

ARREST NEGRO ON CHARGE OF MURDERING THREE WITH AXE

Crime Was One of a Series of Axe Murders Which Followed Closely on One Another in Different Parts of Country.

St. Louis, March 21.—Loving Mitchell, a negro, was arrested here last night on a warrant charging him with the murder of W. E. Dawson, a sexton, his wife and their daughter, Georgia, 13 years old at Monmouth, Ill., on the night of September 30th, 1911. The trio were slain in their beds by blows from an axe.

The crime was one of a series of axe murders which followed closely on one another in various parts of the country. At the time the crime at Monmouth was connected with a similar one at Colorado Springs, Colo. In the house at Monmouth the police found an electric flash light on which were scratched the words "Colorado Springs" and "Loving."

Mitchell was employed at Knoxville, Ill., an hour's ride by trolley from Monmouth. His wife lived at the latter place and he visited her frequently. From the time of his arrest until early this morning Mitchell was questioned by Chief of Police Allender and two detectives from Monmouth. Mitchell denied all knowledge of the crime. He waived extradition and early this morning was taken back to Monmouth.

According to the detectives who came here for the negro, Mitchell disappeared from Monmouth after the killing and was not heard of until March 10th, when he was traced to Independence, Mo. From there he was traced to St. Louis. Mitchell is 47 years old.

Dawson was caretaker of the Presbyterian church at Monmouth. Physicians who saw the bodies of the axe murderer's victims said that Dawson and his wife apparently had been killed from one blow of the axe while asleep. The room of their small daughter however bore evidences of a terrific struggle.

MADDOO'S SISTER HAS UNPLEASANT
EXPERIENCE IN GERMAN CAPITAL

Is Forced to Surrender 2,900 Marks in Gold—Matter is Investigated and Adjusted.

Berlin, March 20.—via London, March 21.—(4:58 a. m.)—Mrs. Nona McDadoo Foster, sister of the American secretary of the treasury, William G. McDadoo on Friday entered a formal complaint with the American ambassador that the police had come to her house on March 8th, and forced her under threat of searching the apartment, to surrender 2,900 marks ($725) in gold which she had stored away for emergency.

The ambassador immediately had the complaint put into affidavit form, preparatory to making a demand on the German foreign office for the return of the money. Mrs. Foster claimed that she had surrendered the money only when convinced that it was useless to resist but did so under protest and received a receipt which she cashed for paper money.

Without waiting for the complaint the German authorities immediately began an investigation. This disclosed that gold had been illegally purchased at a premium by Angelo Scharpa, an adopted brother of Mrs. Foster with whom she had been residing here for several months. The brother in a sworn statement to the police declared that he had bought the gold from a milk man for one per cent premium, not knowing that it was in violation of the law. He said he had intended to go to the United States and had heard that tickets could be purchased only with gold. Later, he changed his mind and decided to remain in Berlin.

Mr. Scharpa signed an affidavit that the money had been surrendered voluntarily to the authorities and that he was convinced Mrs. Foster's imperfect knowledge of the German language had led her to mistake the brusque over-zealousness of the police threats. The Reichbank sent Mrs. Foster a message saying that the gold was at her disposal at any time of need.

MAN ARRESTED FOR FIGHTING FACES ANOTHER CHARGE.

Is Bound Over to Await Grand Jury Action—Broke Into Prentice Depot.

J. A. Foster, who was arrested Friday for engaging in a drunken fight with another "tourist" at the C. & A. stock yards, was yesterday arraigned in court on a charge of burglary. He was bound over to await the action of the grand jury. It was not until after the man's arrest for fighting that the burglary charge was lodged against him. It seems that he in company with Thomas King broke into the Sinclair station Thursday night, where King was shot by the agent and later brought to Jacksonville for surgical attention and lodged in the county jail. Foster escaped at the time of the shooting and came on into Jacksonville, bringing a Jug of whiskey which he and his companions had stolen from the depot at Prentice. Foster took the whiskey to an old barn near the C. & A. stock yards, and arousing a number of slumbering tramps there made merry for several hours. Then the scene of activity was transferred to the stock yards where the fight and arrest later took place. So the Jug of whiskey proved Foster's undoing and now he is held because of evidence given by King at the county jail.

ISSUES STATEMENT ON
TREASURY DEFICITSENATOR SIMMONS TAKES ISSUE
WITH PROPHETS OF LARGE SHORTAGE

States He Feels Safe in Placing Probable Deficit at $26,000,000—Investigates Matter in Conference with Treasury Department Officials.

Washington, March 20.—Chairman Simmons of the senate finance committee took issue today with prophets of a large treasury deficit in a statement saying his investigations at the treasury have convinced him the deficit will not exceed $26,000,000.

Senator Simmons said there had been so many conflicting estimates of the probable deficit, some as high as $130,000,000, that he decided "to ascertain the real facts."

"During the past week," he said "I have been closely investigating this matter in conference with officials of the treasury department and as a result of these investigations and conference I feel safe in saying that the probable deficit will not much exceed $26,000,000."

"Of course this does not include the expenditures on account of the Panama Canal. Expenses are otherwise provided for by law and are not required to be paid out of the current funds of the government."

Fall Below Estimate.

Total estimated receipts in September, 1913, were $736,000,000. Senator Simmons said and estimated expenditures $718,000,000, showing $18,000,000 excess of receipts. "The receipts from practically every source," he added, "have fallen below the estimate, due to depressed business conditions on account of the war in Europe. Although the revenues derived from internal revenue tax probably will be increased by the emergency revenue act over the estimates by about $20,000,000, there was on March 15th, 1915, an excess of ordinary expenditures over receipts of approximately $85,000,000 against a deficit of $24,000,000 on the same date last year.

Gives Reasons for Increase.

"The estimated receipts for the remainder of the fiscal year total $266,000,000 while the ordinary disbursements will amount to $207,000,000, an excess of receipts over expenditures for the remainder of the year of $59,000,000, showing a net deficit of $26,000,000 at the end of the fiscal year. The increases are due in part to the normal growth of the government and part are due to considerations arising out of the European war and the abnormal conditions in Mexico. When the fact is considered that income tax is not required to be paid until about the end of the fiscal year, June 30th, and that the bulk of this tax is not in fact paid until about the end of the fiscal year, the circumstances of an excess disbursements over receipts for the first half of the year and an excess of receipts over disbursements during the last half of the year will be readily understood. It also will be apparent that any estimate based upon the assumption that the proportion of the receipts and disbursements will be the same during the second half of the year as during the first half is both misleading and erroneous."

APPEAL FOR SOME ACTION TO TERMINATE TROUBLE IN YUCATAN

Hemp Growers and Importers Confer With Chief of Latin-American Division of State Department.

Washington, Mar. 20.—A committee of hemp growers from the state of Yucatan, Mexico and representatives of American hemp importers laid before the state department today an appeal for some action by the Washington government that would terminate the revolutionary troubles between General Alvarado, the Carranza governor of Yucatan, and an opposing faction. The committee conferred with Major Heinke, chief of the Latin-American division of the department, and probably will discuss the situation with Secretary Bryan next Monday.

The committee was composed of Carlos Urcelay, Ricardo Molina and Julian Aznar from Yucatan and M. J. Smith of New York, a hemp importer. They said the revolution which resulted in the recent blockade of the port of Progreso by Carranza threatened the destruction of a large portion of the sisal crop from which most of the harvest binding twine used in the United States is made.

FIREIGHT CUTS MAN IN TWO.

Decatur, Ill., Mar. 20.—J. T. Michael, 65 years old, of Clinton, Ill., was instantly killed at the Sangamon street crossing of the Illinois Central railroad here tonight. It is believed that Michael attempted to board a moving freight train at this point and slipped beneath the cars. His body was cut in two.

AHEARN DEFEATS GANS.

New York, Mar. 20.—Young Ahearn, English middle-weight champion, easily defeated Italian Joe Gans of Brooklyn in a ten round bout in Brooklyn tonight. Ahearn was the aggressor throughout, Gans covering up and holding out, Gans covering up and holding out frequently. The bell saved Gans in the seventh round.

MISSOURI NIGHT RIDERS ARE BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY

Entire Band is Arrested By Group of Detectives at Organization Meeting.

Sikeston, Mo., Mar. 20.—Ten men arrested here last night at the organization meeting of a night rider's association were bound over to the grand jury today and tonight were placed in jail at Benton, Mo., to await action of the jury.

Two other prisoners were released on bond. The arrest of the entire band was arranged by a group of detectives, brought here from Chicago, who had become members of the association. The detectives were engaged by landowners and business men, who several weeks ago learned that a night riders' band was being organized.

The band had written letters to many landowners threatening them with whippings and destruction of their homes unless farm laborers were paid $1.50 a day. The letters also demanded lower rent for all tenants. The owners of the Scott County Milling company were threatened with the destruction of their plant by fire unless they paid higher wages.

INSURGENT SUFFRAGISTS
FORM NEW ORGANIZATION

Oppose Policy of Mrs. Trout and Take Action to Push Suffrage Amendment at Present Session of Legislature.

Chicago, March 20.—An insurgent movement among the organized suffragists of Illinois resulted in the organization here today of a new suffrage league. Two meetings were held. At the first—behind closed doors—the new organization was formed and Mrs. John Bass was named chairman of the tentative committee to push the suffrage amendment at the present session of the Illinois legislature, in opposition to the policy of Mrs. Grace Wilbur Trout and the board of the Illinois Equal Suffrage association in lobbying only for the amendment to the amending clause and the constitutional convention.

At the other meeting, a regular gathering of the Chicago Political Equality League, Mrs. Trout replied to her critics and criticized their action. The league then unanimously voted to carry out the policy of Mrs. Trout and the board of the state association.

MOUNT LASSEN AGAIN ACTIVE;
ASHES FALL FIFTEEN MILES AWAY

Eighty-Second Outbreak of Volcano Exceeds All Others Both in Magnitude and Duration.

Redding, Calif., March 20.—Both in magnitude and duration Lassen Peak's eighty second outbreak which occurred today exceeded all previous eruptions. Beginning at dawn a mighty column of dense black smoke rose from the volcano's principal crater and spread a pall over the country side for miles in all directions. At 3 p. m., the eruption ceased but for an hour longer, ashes continued to fall at points fifteen miles away. The sky was cloudless and there was scarcely a breeze to give direction to the huge plume of smoke. From Redding a magnificent view of the eruption was had and although this city is 42 miles distant from the mountain, residents were made keenly aware of Lassen's activity by the acid smell of the sulphurous smoke.

Four miles from Redding ashes fell so thickly that names could be written in the pasty substance. The atmosphere, saturated with volcanic dust contributed to a gorgeous sunset that flamed like an Aurora Borealis.

Whether other craters surrounding the main vent were active today could not be ascertained owing to the black billows from the peak, whose funnel was an extreme length of 1,900 feet, an average width of 200 feet.

Yesterday however, two other vents, one in a desolate region three miles away from the peak and known as Bumpas Hell, were unusually active. Scientist who inspected Lassen Peak last summer it was recalled today gave out this warning:

"If Bumpas Hell wakes up, look out."

EXPECT BATTLE SOON.

San Antonio, Tex., March 20.—A battle is scheduled for the vicinity of San Luis Potosi within a day or so, said a message tonight from that place. It was declared the forces of Carranza and Villa are forming for the contest. Advance troops of General Obregon's army which is advancing northward rapidly have arrived at San Luis Potosi and the main army is expected to reach there within 24 hours.

TAKES REFUGEES TO CUBA.

Havana, Mar. 20.—The Cuban Cruiser Cuba arrived here today with refugees from Progreso, state of Yucatan, Mexico, to which port the warship had been sent to extend aid to Cuban citizens. The Cuba had 437 passengers on board, including 33 people who were transferred from the United States cruiser Des Moines which was lying off Progreso. Almost all the refugees are Mexicans including some of the richest men in Yucatan and more than half of the total number are women and children.

GEN. SCOTT TAKES
INDIAN OUTLAWS

Arrives in Bluff, Utah, With Tse-Ne-Gat and Leaders of the Band

NO DETAILS RECEIVED

Storm Prevents Receipt of Story of How Chief of Army Induced Indians to Give Up

SCOTT AND PARTY UNARMED

DENVER, Colo., March 20.—General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the army, accompanied by Tse-Ne-Gat, a Piute Indian wanted by the federal authorities for murder; "Old Polk," his father; Chief Posey and the latter's son, arrived in Bluff, Utah, late today, according to a special despatch to the Rocky Mountain News from Bluff tonight. Nebeker's Posse Unsuccessful.

General Scott entered the Indian country two weeks ago, having been sent from Washington to seek to pacify a band of recalcitrant Piutes, who were aiding Tse-Ne-Gat in resisting arrest. A posse of federal deputies under United States Marshal Nebeker of Salt Lake City recently made an unsuccessful attempt to arrest the Indian and in a battle between the posse and the Piutes a member of the posse and two Indians were killed and several were wounded. Six Indians were captured and one of the number was later shot and killed while attempting to escape.

General Scott, accompanied only by his aide, an orderly and Navajo guides, left Bluff ten days ago in an effort to induce the Indians to surrender. Details regarding the matter in which he succeeded in inducing the leaders of the band to return with him have not been received here. Wire communication between Bluff and Cortez is bad it is stated, because of a storm prevailing in that section.

Scott's Party Unarmed.

Following the battle with the posse the Piutes are said to have retreated into the rough country southwest of Bluff and near the Utah-Arizona border. General Scott and his party were unarmed and left Bluff with the intention of seeking a conference at which General Scott hoped to induce the leaders to surrender without further resistance. Marshal Nebeker's posse, composed of frontiersmen of eastern Utah and southwestern Colorado was ordered home two days ago. Marshal Nebeker is said to have left for Salt Lake City today.

Aeroplane Disappears When Patrol Boat Opens Fire—British Scouts Attempt to Overhaul German.

London, March 20.—(5:40 p. m.)—A German aeroplane dropped several bombs today off Deal, a seaport on the Strait of Dover. The bombs all landed in the sea. A patrol boat opened fire on the aeroplane which turned and disappeared. One of the bombs dropped alongside the American bark Manga Reva of New York and deluged her with a great volume of water.

British air scouts started in pursuit of the German aeroplane but apparently were too late to overtake it.

Former Congressman O'Donnell of Michigan, father of the rural free delivery service, is dead. When in Congress some years ago he proposed a direct delivery of mail to the farmers. The idea was several years developing into a reality but O'Donnell won supporters because the plan was feasible. The R. F. D. service, now extended to every state in the union, will ever stand as a monument to his memory.

The administration is making arrangements to bring the unemployed and work together. The government has started in on a scheme to "get harvest hands" for next summer. While it is generally admitted that a hungry, jobless man will not be frantically overjoyed with the promise of a few weeks work several months away, still the announcement is expected, or hoped, to bolster up Democracy's waning prospects for 1916. It is probable that the most of the jobless men who will get work through the government's plan will be the agents and sub-agents appointed by the administration to "report conditions."

It seems that Arizona, formerly strong for the uplift stuff, is going to back slide. Just before the legislature of our southwestern neighbor adjourned it passed a bill permitting horse racing. Only Gov. Hunt's veto can now save the state from utter perdition.

Possibly it would be a good idea to have two Democratic central committees and then there would be no friction between the two sets of presiding officers. Or better still, the organization might pattern after a girl's club recently organized in the west end. There are seven members and every member has an office.

What! What has become of those cartoons so widely printed in the sensational newspapers before the last Presidential election, picturing a wan-faced mother with a starving child by her side and an empty basket on her arm, gazing upon a bulletin inscribed in glaring letters: "Bust the Trusts, Smash the Tariff! and Reduce the Cost of Living?" The busting and smashing has been going on for some time but the cost of living still moves upward, the bread line continues to lengthen out and the payroll to shrink. Once more it is timely to remind our readers that a demagogue has never filled a pay envelope—and never will!—Leslie's Weekly.

The following bit of interesting testimony was introduced at the trial of Donn M. Roberts, Democrat mayor of Terre Haute, Ind., who is charged with election frauds:

"One of the fellows who were busy repeating in Precinct A, Sixth Ward, was a one-legged colored man, who voted eight times in the precinct; one time he came with a peg leg; another time he wore a cork leg; the third time without anything strapped to his leg; the fourth time, an iron extension leg; another time with one crutch; one time for the purpose of deception, he wore glasses."

Nothing wrong about this. Merely an endeavor to equalize the Democratic treatment of the negro. As not one negro in eight is allowed to vote south of the Ohio it was doubtless believed that it was only fair for one negro to vote eight times in the North.

Don't upset rotation by the hope of raising big crops at war prices is the advice given to farmers by Dr. C. G. Hopkins of the State University. To the get-rich-quick type of agriculturalist Dr. Hopkins gives this word of caution:

"What farmers are likely to do is to plow up young clover and perhaps pasture land which under ordinary conditions would be allowed to remain for clover as pasture. In order to increase the acreage of corn beyond what ought to be done if a good rotation of crops is to be maintained. I should hesitate to encourage such a procedure, in part, because it will mean as a rule, serious interference with the rational rotation of crops, and poorer crops consequently in subsequent years. It is important that the farmer produce good yields in 1916 as well as in 1915, and I fear that the sacrifice in subsequent crops might be greater than the advantage in the present season."

As someone has already said, the important consideration for women is not that they now have the ballot, but what are they going to do with it? Judging by the figures in the primary election, the women of Jacksonville have minds of their own and will not be dictated to. If they will only study the merits of the various candidates now before the people, they can be trusted to give choice based upon reason rather than on prejudice.

Choosing the Right City Officials

The city election is but a few weeks off now. People are saying very little about it and the interest just at present is not great. Probably things will be different, though, very soon, as candidates become more active, and there will be more and more talk about the men who will be chosen mayor and commissioners to serve for the next four years. Meanwhile, how many people are considering that which is more important than the personality of the candidates, the things they stand for?

The Journal believes that five men should be elected to office for the coming term who will give Jacksonville a progressive city government. It can be taken as an acknowledged fact that all of the ten men believe in the enforcement of law and those other general principles upon which all good government is founded. To say that one believes in law enforcement is a more generalization and, in fact, a good deal of pre-election talk in general terms.

But the men who are chosen on April 20th to serve the people for the following four years should be men who really have a desire to serve and who have some specific ideas as to what they expect to do during their term of office. Next to law enforcement, the most general statement made by the average candidate is that he believes in economy. This is a virtue which, too strictly adhered to in municipal affairs, may become a vice. The economy matter can be overdone in a city's affairs, and the word becomes synonymous with retrogression rather than a part of progression.

For three or four years past there has been discussion and agitation about franchises for the local utility company. Suits have been here and withdrawn. The rate case has been taken before the state utility commission. A few public spirited citizens prosecuted the matter to a certain extent. A Springfield attorney was engaged to look after the matter because he was handling a number of cases of the same kind. Then came the question of who hired the attorney and who was to pay him and nobody seemed to know.

The city apparently is taking little interest in a case which affects every consumer of gas and electricity in the city. True it is that the utility commission has declared that the case will be decided upon its merits and that the city can feel assured of that fact. It is true too that whatever the decision, it does not settle the question of franchises and this very important matter will then come before people. The people will vote upon the franchises but a vast amount depends upon the phraseology of those documents and the five men elected to office will have much to do with the details. Have you thought about this? What men of the ten do you wish to trust with this important work?

The next city administration should see to it that something is done each year toward adding to the total of Jacksonville's street paving, and to putting into better condition some of the pavement already laid. There are pavements in Jacksonville which are disgraceful. An automobile which was riding around the city recently said, "If I were to ride through a dozen cities in Illinois with my eyes shut and then return to Jacksonville I wouldn't have any trouble in telling when I reached home, for our pavements are the worst ever."

This is no exaggerated statement with reference to certain portions. Differences of opinion as to material to be used in street paving should not delay work to any extent. A board of local improvement should pave with that material for which the largest percentage of property owners on a given street ask—brick, asphalt, tar, or cedar blocks—for any of them will make a good pavement, and the important thing is to pave.

The adjacent property owners should not be asked to pay for intersections as has sometimes been the theory in the past. This work should be paid for by general taxation and, in fact, within the past year the supreme court has ruled to that effect. Improvements should not be confined to pavement, and while considerable advancement has been made in recent years in the matter of sidewalks, there is still plenty of work to be done in this line. Ordinances have been passed at intervals during recent years requiring property owners to put down new walks in front of their property. The ordinances have been ignored and no effort made upon the part of the city to enforce them. If the city law which supposedly compels property owners to put down sidewalks by order of council will not stand court test, then other legislation should be passed which will give to the council this authority.

Much has been done also in the improvement of the light and water departments during the past year and a half but much remains to be done. The wiring throughout the streets is old and in many cases is in a dangerous condition and should be replaced as speedily as possible.

COL. SMITH ANNOUNCES.

Colonel Frank Smith of Dwight yesterday made good recent political prophecies by formally announcing his candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor. This will not be the first campaign that Col. Smith has waged for the same office and he has been well known for years in party councils. His particular strength is in the northern part of the state, but he has friends in other districts as well. Col. Smith has splendid ability as an orator in addition to other good campaigning qualities and if there is any virtue in getting into the arena early, he should make a formidable candidate.

New wiring will add further to the efficiency of the street lighting department. Because of the inadequacy of funds, the building improvements at the municipal light plant have been of a somewhat temporary character, but so planned that the present framework can be utilized, money can be spent there advantageously.

The same thing will apply to the north side pumping station, for while there are still many people who do not feel certain that the water problem has been permanently solved by the wells there, the fact remains that those wells are performing splendid service for Jacksonville now and during the past two years can be justly credited with having saved the city from a water famine.

The fire alarm system has been out of repair for a long period and from lack of funds has not been put into condition. This important feature for fire protection should be thoroughly put in order as speedily as possible.

Additions to the fire equipment are needed. While with unpaved streets it will not be possible to do away wholly with horses for motor power, in line with action in other progressive cities changes should be made from time to time to motor equipment. After a bad fire in the west end there is always talk of establishing a west end station, but the change to motor equipment would make this unnecessary and would add to the general efficiency of the fire department.

The next few years should see something done toward the removal of many of the light, telegraph and telephone poles which now border streets and alleys. They are unsightly and a menace to safety. Without working a hardship upon any corporation something should be done toward lessening the number of these poles and making those which remain more sightly.

The incoming administration should adopt a definite plan for planting trees along the streets where replacements are desirable in order that in coming years the city may not lose the glory of its shade trees. A system of landscaping could be adopted with good effect and developed gradually without undue expense.

There are numerous old houses scattered about the city which should be condemned and razed. They are not fit for habitation and add to the danger from fire.

The most important thing possibly for the incoming council in the line of endeavor is to effect unity of action. A council with five members working in harmony can accomplish much more for the general good than a council divided into three and two. A council, too, can accomplish much greater things for the city if the members have a desire to work unitedly with the business men of the city. There should be no jealousy or petty strife between the city officials and the officers or members of the chamber of commerce, or whatever the organization may be which represents the business interests of the city. They both are, or should be, working toward the same ends—the development of the business life of Jacksonville and the bettering of the city as a place in which to dwell.

The history of city governments and commercial organizations is that they frequently work at cross purposes and the result is nothing done, or much less than could and should be true. At intervals during the past ten or twelve years Jacksonville has witnessed the spectacle of city officers showing open resentment if offered any suggestions by a body of citizens. It often happens that a man who, before he was elected has been what might be termed "one of the people" and very approachable, seems to change entirely after he is elected, and to feel that people who make suggestions are interfering with his inalienable rights as a representative of the people; in other words he forgets altogether that he has been chosen by the people as their representative, to listen to suggestions and advice that they wish to give.

There are a lot of other things that might be mentioned as desirable, but getting back to general terms, when you choose your candidates at the election in April, vote for men whom you think will give the city a progressive business administration. Think of the several departments into which the city is organized by the commission form of government act, and vote for some man you think especially qualified to serve in each department. There are more than five men of good character running for office, and so it is possible for the voters to think of something in addition to good character.

Fitness for service should be considered, and the voters should favor those men whose past records give promise that they will serve the city and which also give promise of higher ideals of accomplishment than to merely equal the records of the past.

Let us have an administration of "law and order," progression and harmony.

Meanwhile downstate politicians are waiting with interest some formal word from Andrew Russell with reference to his possible candidacy. Many leaders have not hesitated to express the opinion that his showing in the election last fall and other facts in his political career point to him as a logical candidate for

DANIEL FROHMAN Presents, by arrangement with DAVID BELASCO, the Famous Modern Fairy Play.

"A Good Little Devil"

Adapted from the French by Austin Strong with David Belasco's Original Cast, including

MARY PICKFORD,

ERNEST TRUAX and WILLIAM NORRIS in Motion Pictures. 5 Reels

REVIEW—In this production of the wonderful imaginative comedy-drama, "A Good Little Devil," David Belasco's greatest artistic triumph is immortalized. "A Good Little Devil" is a fairy play for young and old and all between. It is poetry and fantasy, mingled with reality. It is a human film, echoing the cry of the world. The stage version of the play was believed to be the master stroke of David Belasco's producing genius. Combined with graphic camera effects and the mechanical possibilities and powers of the motion picture, the film production surpasses the dramatic glories and scenic triumphs of the original play. Mary Pickford, who in this play added to her popularity as a famous film star the glory of a stage triumph now enacts the role in which she won this new distinction, for the screen.

QUO VADIS WILL THIS WEEK BE SEEN AT SCOTT'S THEATER

Patrons to Witness Kleine's Superb Photo Drama—World's Famous Story by Henry Sienkiewicz Has Crowded the Theatres of Metropolitan Cities—Here Thursday and Friday.

"Quo Vadis" (in 8 reels), George Kleine's superb photo drama spectacle that aroused so much enthusiasm in New York and crowded the Astor Theatre, duplicating its success in Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston, will be seen at Scott's Theatre two days, Thursday and Friday, March 25 and 26, afternoon and night.

From every viewpoint this is the most marvelous achievement in the photo drama realm and richly deserves its success. It is dramatic, spectacular and thrilling at the same time. The multitude of incidents contained in Henry Sienkiewicz's world famous story from which the pictures were made have been more than faithfully reproduced and all the romantic and historic values retained. For lovers of romance the beautiful story of the Roman youth Vinitius' great love for the sweet young Christian girl, Lygia, is graphically visualized as well as the companion story of Petronius' affection for his slave "Eunice." To admirers of history and searchers for thrills nothing can be more satisfying than these vivid pictures of the infamous Nero and his court, with its horrible though spectacularly gorgeous feasts and orgies; and they can find even more sensation in the reproduction of the tyrant's pleasures in the Arena, the chariot races, gladiator combats and the reading of the faithful band of Christian martyrs by the ferocious lions, and in that crowning spectacle illustrating his infamous and imbecile vanity, the burning of Rome. Those who profit by and enjoy the lessons taught in the story take pleasure in the illustrated history of the birth of Christianity in Rome, the trials and experiences of the Christians, the teachings of Peter and Paul and the visitation of the Saviour to Peter on the Appian Way as he is about to desert Rome. In its entirety it is the most satisfying entertainment yet conceived in the broad field of motion photography.

No drama in the world ever comprehended such intense dramatic moments—yet it all lifts the veil of doubt from the minds of this later generation why "Eternal Rome" fell. A positive guarantee this picture has never been shown in Jacksonville before. Adults, 20c; children, 10c.

HORSE FEEDERS

WOOD'S IMPROVED
GRAIN SOFTENER
Pat. Jan. 8th, 1915.

We find after several tests on feeding horses, softened grain with all its strength retained in it, is the best feed for a horse that can be fed. It keeps them in a healthier condition, and they will drive better, do more work, look better, beside we save one-third the feed. I will furnish one plant in each town, one on 30 days free trial to prove my claims, and I will furnish one of my plants in each county, on 30 days free trial to prove it is the best cattle feed, and the sloop of the mush fed cattle the best hog feed. A little soda is good for all classes of stock; helps them digest their feed. I ask all cattle feeders and horse feeders to try one.

2 gallons of corn with the cob in it cooked will make all any steer can eat, and gain 3 1-2 to 4 pounds per day, if clover is fed with it in dry lots.

1 gallon with the cob in it makes a day's feed for a horse.

1 gallon corn with ground clover in it feeds a hog a day.

Silos

Said a well known silo dealer a few days ago to our Cashier: "Farmers who contemplate purchasing silos this year ought to get ready now. If any of your farmer customers buys a silo of me and gives me his note therefor, will you cash the note?"

Our Cashier replied: "No, we will not cash the note? We will do better than that. If any of our farmers wants to buy a silo and has not the ready cash to pay for it, we will lend him the money at attractive rates."

Our President overheard the conversation and added: "We will go further than that. If ANY farmer around here who is making good wants to buy a silo and has not the ready cash to pay for it, we will lend him the money at attractive rates—we would do the same thing to help him buy cows—for we are in position to lend farmers for the legitimate expansion of their business."

MORE OFFICERS FOR DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE

NEW CHAIRMAN AND SECRETARY SELECTED AT SPECIAL MEETING SATURDAY.

Down With the Old Officers is Slogan and Twenty Five Unite for This Action—Two Sets' Now Claim Authority—Judicial Convention Delegation Ostensible Cause of All the Trouble—Other Differences Real Basis—Further Developments Anticipated.

The Morgan County Democratic central committee is a much offi- cered organization. Hereafter it is presumed that the official stationery of the members on which state communications are written will have a heading like this:

President—Bernard Gause.
President—Haller Higgins.
Secretary—W. C. Howe.
Secretary or assistant secretary—John W. Clary.

Heretofore one president and one secretary have been able to dis- charge the duties, onerous as they have been, but recently the duties have increased so rapidly that additional officers were needed.

There may be differing opinions among the members of the commit- tee as to just the number of offi- cers now serving, but from a spec- tator's standpoint the opinions of the contending factions must be considered together in arriving at conclusions. And it all came about in this wise.

A meeting was held Saturday at the court house in accordance with a call issued a few days since signed by 21 members of the commit- tee.

Strangely Silent.

A Journal reporter asked practi- cally every Democratic office hold- er and every Democratic candidate for city office for some details of the gathering, but each and every one knew "absolutely nothing" about the proceeding. It was a great day for side steppers.

Anyhow this gathering was osten- sibly for the purpose of ousting the chairman and performing any other little duties which the committeemen might consider in the line of patri- otic party action. It was set forth in the call that the occasion de- manded the removal of the chair- man because he had declined to sign the credentials of the delegates cho- sen by the central committee to the judicial committee to be held in Springfield this week. It developed afterward that the chairman did sign the credentials upon their pre- sentation to him by the secretary. This fact did not interfere, though, with the carrying out of the pro- gram as planned.

More Officers Chosen.

When the central committee was organized some months ago Bern- ard Gause was elected chairman and W. C. Howe secretary. They con- tinued to hold office from that time through the campaign and down to the present. According to the re- ported action Saturday, after the gathering assembled James O. Vos- seller was selected as temporary chairman and John W. Clary as temporary secretary. The call was read setting forth the purpose of the meeting. Then Haller Higgins was nominated as permanent chair- man and was declared elected and Mr. Clary was honored with the position of secretary or assistant secretary, the report varying. Mr. Howe, the secretary of the commit- tee, was present, at least he was there a part of the time, for it is understood that after being recog- nized by the chair he read a re- sume of the proceedings leading up to the present rupture declined to serve as secretary of the meet- ing and then departed. Notwith- standing that his conduct was not strictly in accordance with the cus- toms and usage of the committee, the secretary, according to the re- port, was not deposed from office, but instead, because of his many duties an assistant was chosen. Another report has it that Mr. Howe is out of office and Mr. Clary in.

Call Meeting Illegal.

Various interesting questions have arisen in connection with this much lamented strife within the committee. The "constitution and by-laws" of the central committee make no provision for the calling of special meetings, and adherents of Mr. Gause maintain that there is only one chairman and that no meeting of the committee was held Saturday afternoon. They argue that only after the refusal of the chairman to call a meeting would the members have the right and au- thority to legally join in a call. And then there is the further interesting claim that a county chairman when duly elected under the primary law, becomes a legal entity and has cer- tain rights from which he cannot be deprived except in a strictly 'e- gal manner. What is behind the whole "unpleasantness" nobody on the outside knows, but it is a safe guess that the end is not yet.

Judicial Convention Chairman Quid.

Mr. Gause at the meeting of the judicial committee held at Springfield, was chosen chairman of the committee. By virtue of this office he would call to order the judicial convention when it convenes in Springfield next Wednesday and serve as chair- man until either a temporary or permanent organization is effected. If he is not chairman of the central committee, is he chairman of the judicial committee, a post he held by virtue of the fact that he was serving as chairman of the Morgan county committee? If he is not the chairman, can it be possible that Haller Higgins, who it is also al- leged is holding that post, is by virtue of his office a chairman of the judicial committee? And if neither one of these estimable gen- tlemen is the chairman, then who is going to preside? Possibly it will be necessary to call in some Repub- lican before the convention can really get down to business and or- ganize.

But as already intimated, there is something too deep and mysteri- ous about this whole matter for anyone on the outside to under- stand. There are two sets of dele- gates elected to the convention from Sangamon county, each delegation claiming the right to cast 34 votes out of the 91 which will constitute the convention. It is said that this is not a Sullivan and anti-Sullivan fight, it is undoubtedly not a wet and dry fight, and the people who know refuse to shed any light upon the real underlying facts. But there will be a gay time undoubtedly when the convention assemblies, and the horizon might present a rosy aspect to Republicans if it were not for the fact that the district has a normal majority of about 6,000 Democratic.

Three Counties Control.

Sangamon, Greene and Macoupin all have candidates for judgeships and are expecting to nominate. These three counties have 65 dele- gates out of 91, so that the figures show on the face that they can do just about as they please. Only in event of a split-up in the Sangamon county vote could Morgan, with 15 votes; Scott with 5 votes, and Jer- sey with 6 votes, hope to accomplish anything tangible. Meanwhile Wil- liam N. Hairgrove is one of the most interested spectators, as he is a can- didate for nomination, although he admits that he is somewhat handi- capped by the combination of San- gamon, Greene and Macoupin against the other three counties in the district.

It may be necessary for the courts to decide who is the chairman of the Morgan county central commit- tee, although the 25 members who took the action Saturday resulting in the announcement that Haller Higgins had succeeded Mr. Gause, are confident that they acted within their rights. They base this opinion on the vehemently denied statement that Mr. Gause declined to do cer- tain things when requested by a ma- jority of the committee. Further, they maintain that it is one of the ancient and inalienable rights of any organization to purge itself. They say that a majority of a com- mittee can do anything upon which those constituting a majority unite; that chairman can be elected and deposed, and assistant secretaries added or taken away if only enough members of the committee are in- tent upon doing these things. So they say that 25 members out of 31 make enough and to spare to legalize all action taken.

Wheels Moved Smoothly.

The meeting Saturday is reported to have been a comparatively tame affair, at any rate by comparison with the spirited and acrimonious session of a week ago. At that time a whole lot of political history was disinterred and the happenings of the last campaign were reviewed. The debate was sharp and furious, and the decapitation, or alleged de- capitation of the chairman, came as a result a week later. Meanwhile local members of what has been termed "the late Republican party", but really the reunited Republican party, are feel- ing duly sorrowful over this un- pleasant state of affairs within the Democratic party organization. If there is anything that the Repub- licans can do to pour oil upon the troubled waters or to heal the wounds of the contending factions they can be depended upon to be ready with "first aid" comforts.

Secretary Howe's Farewell.

Before leaving the meeting Secre- tary Howe made a farewell address to his fellow Democrats, reviewing from his stand point the events which had led up to the troubles of the day. He made a general denial of the charge that the officers had declined to sign the judicial con- vention credentials for the delegates, maintaining moreover, that proper credentials signed by the secretary and chairman had been sent to each and every delegate. Members of the committee were challenged to point out one single order that the officers had refused to obey, for the call which resulted in the meeting Saturday, made the direct charge that the chairman had been insubor- dinate in his actions and had refused to do the bidding of the commit- tee.

Lastly, Mr. Howe said, "as a mat- ter of fact there had been perfect harmony in the ranks of this com- mittee until persons who are not members, injected their personal differences into our meetings and they are now asking you to take sides in some imaginary quarrel which can have no other end than the disrupting of the party. Each member of this committee has been elected by the voters of this dis- trict under the direction of the primary law which governs your acts, and the meeting which you are holding today has absolutely no le- gal status and you cannot, under the call which you received, take the action that you intend. I hope that you gentlemen will not, by the action you plan, contribute to part- isanship."

RECEPTION AT WESTMINSTER.

OLD PAPER DESCRIBES PRODIGIOUS RAINFALL

The following clipping from a Philadelphia paper was received re- cently from Washington by Clarence J. Root, section director of the weather bureau, stationed at Spring- field, and forwarded to George H. Hall, U. S. weather observer at Alexander. The department desired verification of the account, printed July 12, 1872. From the Journal files it is apparent that a heavy rain storm did visit the east and south parts of the county Tuesday, July 9, but nothing is mentioned similar to the account below and Mr. Hall is inclined to think that the Philadelphia paper was in error. Older residents may recall such a storm, although it seems that the account is exaggerated.

"Three days of tornadoes and deluges of rain from Minnesota to Pennsylvania have marked the last hot term of the present year and done much damage to local belts of the western country. The storm of the 2d and 4th instants obstruc- ted the Fort Wayne & Chicago rail- road line for 100 miles with falling trees. In other localities houses were swept away like haystacks. The rainfall stopped at the Alle- gheny mountains. At Jacksonville, Ill., on Sunday from midnight to 5 o'clock Monday morning, the incred- ible quantity of twelve and a quarter inches of rain fell. This is about one-fourth of the entire an- nual rainfall. Of course the valleys were filled beyond all precedent, bridges culverts and embankments wheat crops swept away and travel on the Toledo & Wabash railroad and the Jacksonville, N. W. & S. E. R. R. interrupted."

THE COLLEGE SOCIETY DEBATE MONDAY NIGHT

An Interesting Occasion Which Will Be Enjoyed by Many Friends.

Monday evening at eight in the Jones Memorial building of Illinois college there is to be a joint debate between representatives of the Sigma Pi and Phi Alpha societies. The young gentlemen to take part are Bracewell, Nesmith and Mangner for the Phi Alpha society and Apple, Harmon and Dixon for the Sigma Pi. The question is, "Resolved, That the labor unions should be exempt from the operations of the Sherman anti-trust law."

Both societies have chosen their best debaters and all have been assiduously working to prepare themselves for the occasion and a lively contest may be expected.

The two literary societies are one of the best assets of the college and training a young man gets in them is of inestimable value to him in after life if he is faithful to his duties there. The rivalry runs high during the college life of the members but after they leave they always lose all partiality for either society and take a general view of conditions unbiased by any kind of youthful prejudice.

Doubtless a large audience will greet the young debaters and they will be encouraged by many friends. The judges are Dr. A. L. Adams, J. J. Reeve and Principal Stone of the city high school.

SOLD BULL TRACTOR.

Richard Day, agent for the Bull Tractor, sold to E. N. Haigrove of Sinclair a Bull Tractor to be delivered at once.

A PERSISTENT TRAMP.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Ham of the north part of the county were in the city yesterday and said they had a visitor recently. Mr. Ham was away and a tramp called at the door and pretending to be deaf and dumb handed Mrs. Ham a card on which was printed a request for supplies. Mrs. Ham said she had nothing when suddenly the fellow found his tongue and demanded that Mrs. Ham open the door and admit him as he evidently supposed no one was at home.

Mrs. Ham called a good sized bird dog to her side and told the man if he entered he would have to encounter the dog when the caller said if she would not open the door, which was a screen, he would depart and he lost no time making his word good.

A gentleman living in the west part of the city says that tramps have lately acquired a habit of calling at the front door as they are likely to be seen from the window if they go to the rear of the house, so they ring the bell and hide behind the door when it is opened and then make their requests and sometimes demands.

MURDER MYSTERIES AT AURORA STILL UNSOLVED

Police There Are Grappling With Biggest Crime Problem of Years
—List of Victims.

THE VICTIMS.

Sept. 26, 1913—Mildred Rexroat, tango teacher, beaten to death near Aurora. Henry Spencer, despite insistent claims of innocence, was hanged for the crime.

Feb. 16, 1914—Theresa Hollander clubbed to death in a cemetery. Tony Petras, a former suitor, was twice tried and acquitted.

Nov. 19, 1914—Jennie Miller, daughter of a former mayor, clubbed to death in a graveyard. Several arrests but the crime was never solved.

Feb. 25, 1915—Emma Peterson clubbed to death near residence of former U. S. Senator Albert J. Hopkins. Police arrested 42 suspects. Piece of gaspipe and an old woolen glove the only clues.

Aurora, Ill., March 20.—The police of Aurora are no nearer the solution of the murder mysteries that have thrown the citizens of this city into fear than they were on February 26, when they rounded up 42 suspects in a desperate effort to fasten onto some weak-minded resident the murder of the night before, when pretty Emma Peterson, a laundry worker was clubbed to death. The murder of Miss Peterson was the most recent in the chain of brutal murders of women that have remained unsolved. The failure of the round-up to bring in the police net the perpetrator of these crimes is a keen disappointment.

Chief Michels of the local police had fixed his suspicions on Clarence Burke, who was arraigned today on a vagrancy charge. But later evidence proved the alibi of Burke, that he was at another point in the city when the murder of Miss Peterson took place on the night of February 25th.

A wave of terror among the women of the city has been twice repeated since September, 1913, when Miss Mildred Rexroat was beaten to death near Aurora. Three other women have fallen victims to brutal club of the maniac. Although Henry Spencer was found guilty and hanged for the Rexroat murder, he maintained his innocence of the crime, and the repeated murders of a similar nature have led many to suspect that Spencer was not the murderer of Mabel Rexroat, but that she was victim of the same demon who has since committed three murders in this city.

The principal clues in the possession of the police are an old woolen glove and a piece of gas pipe. The latter is thought to have been the weapon used on Miss Peterson when she was slain last month.

Miss Peterson was a laundry worker, and a careful investigation has failed to disclose any love affair or other entanglement that would furnish any clue to the cause of the crime.

As in the murder of Miss Jennie Miller, elderly daughter of a former mayor, who was slain with a pipe wrench as she passed a church yard last November, a "great tall man wearing a long overcoat" is the mysterious individual wanted by the police. A man answering this description stood over the body of Miss Peterson stooped to pick up something and then fled. Miss Peterson's skull was crushed down through the forehead, almost exactly as was Miss Miller's.

The Hollander girl was clubbed to death in a cemetery, and at the trial of Tony Petras, who was formerly her suitor, it was brought out that several weak-minded boys were allowed to roam at liberty in the city. The evidence against Petras was not sufficient to convict him.

SAW SOME SIGHTS.

Rev. Walter E. Spooner who is working in revival meetings in Nebraska wrote that in going from one place to another on a train he saw lots of quail and prairie chickens and three wolves all in plain sight and near enough to be brought down by a rifle. He also said that in many places there was three feet of snow on a level. He will probably be at home some time this week though the people out there would like to keep him longer and it is needless to add that his people here will most gladly welcome his return.

MR. KNOWITALL

The man who knows he's always right, that what he says is final—upon his frame men long to fight, and jar his column spinal. No matter what the theme may be, that we may be discussing, "I know the Facts, by James," says he, "so quit your foolish fussing. Just listen to your uncle tell the truth of all such matters, and you'll be doing wisely well," thus wearily he chatters. What others say is merely blow; their minds are blank and stranded; he talks of Facts and Truths as though he had them bought and branded. You start to talk about the war; old Knowitall gets busy; "I know just what they're fighting for—your statements all are dizzy. I have the Facts, I'm in the swim, and I will put you wiser; my brother's uncle's cousin Jim is hostler to the Kaiser; he's next to all that's going on, and tells me of the doings." So he maintains, till day is gone, his endless linen chewings. He's always loaded with the Facts, while others deal in fiction; he shoots them forth in cataracts, throughout his jurisdiction.

LAND O'NOD STORIES

THE FAIRIES' MARBLES

"The fairies must have been playing a game of marbles in the snow last night," said Billy Be By Bo Bum, as he stopped suddenly under a big oak that grew on the bank of the dried up creek that wound its crooked way through the White Forest.

"What makes you think that?" asked Tinker Teedle Tee, the merry little elf, who was helping Billy follow the trail of Sharpnose the Mink to find out how the old villain came out with his hunting.

"Why don't you see their marbles?" asked Billy, pointing to three or four hard little balls half buried in the snow.

"Ho, ho, ho, ha, ha, ha," laughed Tinker, jumping up and cracking his heels together. "That's the best joke I've heard for a long while," and he laughed so hard his sides shook like a bowl full of jelly and the weeny copper kettle he wore for a hat bounced up and down at a great rate.

"I'm sure I don't see anything to laugh at," said Billy crossly, the corners of his mouth beginning to turn down. "I don't think you are very polite to make fun of a fellow when he hasn't done anything."

"Now don't get cross Billy Boy," coaxed Tinker, spreading his wings and flying up on the little boy's shoulder. "I didn't mean to hurt your feelings, honest I didn't, and if I did I'm sorry. But it sure did strike me funny that anyone should mistake those spit balls for fairies' marbles."

"Spit balls, what do you mean Tinker?" asked Billy, more puzzled than ever.

"I mean that old Too Whoop the Owl didn't go hungry last night, even if Sharpnose did," replied the elf. "And what's more, the Terror of the Forest, as the Little People call the Owl, ate his dinner in this very tree."

"How do you know?" demanded Billy.

"By those spit balls you thought were fairies' marbles."

"But if they aren't marbles, what are they?"

"Lumps of feathers or fur," replied Tinker. "Those little balls are all that is left of some poor bird or animal so lucky, enough to cross old Too Whoop's path when he was out hunting last night. None of the Little People are quick enough to escape when Mr. Owl swoops down out of the darkness, and none of them can bear him coming, for he fits through the woods as silently as a shadow. With his prey clutched tightly in his claws, he flew to this tree to eat his dinner. Now Too Whoop is as greedy as he is cruel, and he takes time to eat his meals properly. He is in such a hurry he just swallows his food he has belted the unlucky bird or animal the fur or feathers are separated from the meat and rolled into hard little balls, for all the world like marbles. Then Too Whoop spits them up and is ready for another meal. So whenever you find any of these fairies' marbles under a tree, you know Too Whoop ate his dinner in the branches. But if we are going to find out where Sharpnose got his dinner last night, we had better be hurrying."

So Billy and the elf trudged on and on, following the double row of neat little footprints in the snow, but although he kept a sharp watch, Billy could see no signs of the Little People. He was beginning to get tired after his long walk and had about made up his mind to start back home, when he saw a narrow path, only about three inches wide, winding in and out between the trees. Sharpnose had seen it too, for his trail turned off and joined the path, and of course Billy and Tinker followed.

"Now who do you suppose made this little road?" asked Billy.

"The Rabbits," Tinker replied. "This is one of their many run-whole, bones, fur, feathers and all."

Now you know fur and feathers are not good to eat at all, and they don't agree with even an Owl's digestion. But Old Mother Nature has given Too Whoop a funny kind of a turn. Indeed if she hadn't, he would have died of a stomach ache long ago. So after ways, and Mr. Mink knows it, I shouldn't be at all surprised if we found where he had a rabbit supper not far from here."

The snow in the runway was beaten down so hard it was impossible to see the tracks of either Mr. Rabbit or Sharpnose, but Billy and Tinker trotted along as fast as they could, for they were both anxious to see how Mr. Mink came out with his hunting.

Before they had gone very far they heard Bushybody the Bluejay screaming and scolding at the top of his voice. Now Bushybody is the most curious fellow alive, and is forever poking into other people's business, but he always warns the Little People when an enemy is about. So Billy and Tinker knew something was the matter, and they soon found out what it was. For just at the spot where the runway disappeared into a briar patch, they stumbled onto the body of a dead rabbit in the snow.

"Poor Bunny," said Tinker, wiping his eyes with his tiny handkerchief. "So old Sharpnose caught you at last, the wicked old villain."

That was the end of Mr. Rabbit, but next week I'll tell you about Frisky the Redsquirrel.

LAND O'NOD STORIES

THE FAIRIES' MARBLES

"The fairies must have been playing a game of marbles in the snow last night," said Billy Be By Bo Bum, as he stopped suddenly under a big oak that grew on the bank of the dried up creek that wound its crooked way through the White Forest.

"What makes you think that?" asked Tinker Teedle Tee, the merry little elf, who was helping Billy follow the trail of Sharpnose the Mink to find out how the old villain came out with his hunting.

"Why don't you see their marbles?" asked Billy, pointing to three or four hard little balls half buried in the snow.

"Ho, ho, ho, ha, ha, ha," laughed Tinker, jumping up and cracking his heels together. "That's the best joke I've heard for a long while," and he laughed so hard his sides shook like a bowl full of jelly and the weeny copper kettle he wore for a hat bounced up and down at a great rate.

"I'm sure I don't see anything to laugh at," said Billy crossly, the corners of his mouth beginning to turn down. "I don't think you are very polite to make fun of a fellow when he hasn't done anything."

"Now don't get cross Billy Boy," coaxed Tinker, spreading his wings and lying up on the little boy's shoulder. "I didn't mean to hurt your feelings, honest I didn't, and if I did I'm sorry. But I sure did strike me funny that anyone should mistake those spit balls for fairies' marbles."

"Spit balls, what do you mean Tinker," asked Billy, more puzzled than ever.

"I mean that old Too Whoos the Owl didn't go hungry last night, even if Sharpnose did," replied the elf. "And what's more, the Teror of the Forest, as the Little People call the Owl, ate his dinner in this very tree."

"How do you know?" demanded Billy.

"By those spit balls you thought were fairies' marbles."

"But if they aren't marbles, what are they?"

"Lumps of feathers or fur," replied Tinker. "Those little balls are all that left of some poor bird or animal unlucky enough to cross old Too Whoos' path when he was out hunting last night. None of the Little People are quick enough to escape when Mr. Owl swoops down out of the darkness, and none of them can bear him coming, for he fits through the woods as silently as a shadow. With his prey clutched tightly in his claws, he flew to this tree to eat his dinner. Now Too Whoos is as greedy as he is cruel, and never takes time to eat his meals properly. He is in such a hurry he just swallows his food he has belted the unlucky bird or animal the fur or feathers are separated from the meat and rolled into hard little balls, for all the world like marbles. Then Too Whoos spits them up and is ready for another meal. So whenever you find any of these fairies' marbles under a tree, you know Too Whoos ate his dinner in the branches. But if we are going to find out where Sharpnose got his dinner last night, we had better be hurrying."

So Billy and the elf trudged on and on, following the double row of neat little footprints in the snow, but although he kept a sharp watch, Billy could see no signs of the Little People. He was beginning to get tired after his long walk and had about made up his mind to start back home, when he saw a narrow path, only about three inches wide, winding in and out between the trees. Sharpnose had seen it too, for his trail turned off and joined the path, and of course Billy and Tinker followed.

"Now who do you suppose made this little road?" asked Billy.

"The Rabbits," Tinker replied. "This is one of their many run-ways. Whole bones, fur, feathers and all."

Now you know fur and feathers are not good to eat at all, and they don't agree with even an Owl's digestion. But Old Mother Nature has given Too Whoos a funny kind of a tummy. Indeed if she hadn't, he would have died of a stomach ache long ago. So after ways, and Mr. Mink knows it, I shouldn't be at all surprised if we found where he had a rabbit supper not far from here."

The snow in the runway was beaten down so hard it was impossible to see the tracks of either Mr. Rabbit or Sharpnose, but Billy and Tinker trotted along as fast as they could, for they were both anxious to see how Mr. Mink came out with his hunting.

Before they had gone very far they heard Bushybody the Bluejay screaming and scolding at the top of his voice. Now Bushybody is the most curious fellow alive, and is forever poking into other people's business, but he always warns the Little People when an enemy is about. So Billy and Tinker knew something was the matter, and they soon found out what it was. For just at the spot where the runway disappeared into a briar patch, they stumbled onto the body of a dead rabbit in the snow.

"Poor Bunny," said Tinker, wiping his eyes with his tiny handkerchief. "So old Sharpnose taught you at last, the wicked old villain."

That was the end of Mr. Rabbit, but next week I'll tell you about Frisky the Red squirrel.

Firestone Has Done Better than Meet Popular Prices

HERE are two examples: a small size, 30x3 plain tread, and a large size, 37x5 Non-Skid. Each shown actual size. The same relative values apply in all sizes. Note the detailed specifications of sections as outlined above. Then ask any neutral repair man which manufacturer gives the most in quality. He cuts into all makes of tires. He knows.

You want that extra layer of fabric in the Firestones — 4 plies instead of 3 in the small — 7 plies instead of 6 in the large size.

You want that cushion stock in the Firestone. There is none of it in the so-called "popular" priced tires. Yet it is impossible to build a full service tire without a cushion layer under the breaker strip. You must have it to prevent bruising and overstraining the fabric.

Firestone Tires have never been built down to a price. You will find everything in a Firestone that ought to be there.

Firestone Tires are vulcanized by the "two-cure" process. This is more expensive than the "one-cure," but it allows rigid inspection in the making and eliminates fabric buckles and other defects.

And you want the Firestone bead on that big tire for your safety as well as economy. Designed, built and cured into the tire specially for a clincher rim. Other clincher beads are merely patched onto straight side types.

The Sections Show These Things—The Wear, the Mileage, Prove Them

Yet you pay only 40 cents more for this small Firestone than the ordinary. And only a trifle more in proportion for the larger sizes. Because the much greater surface of the big tires demand so much more of this most expensive rubber and fabric.

And remember the little more you pay for the Firestone Non-Skid gives you a lot more tread. Ordinary anti-skids contain no extra rubber. You are asked to pay more just for a pattern. No extra rubber, no real skid protection, such as Firestones offer.

Take the word of the specialists of the industry—take the record of the Firestone Tires for 15 years—as your authority that these extras of quality are necessary for real service and true economy.

Less material and lower grades are traps to make sales on prices.

The Firestone organization, the largest in the world specializing on tires, can make and market tires and tubes at a lower cost to you, the user, than any one else in the industry.

The tires and prices prove it beyond argument.

Firestone Tube Prices Give Added Proof of Firestone Savings to You

Firestone is below them all on tubes. WHY?

A tube is good or bad to the eye and the touch. Quality can and does vary, weight can be and is skimpy, but not so radically as in tires. The buyer won't have it. Having to come near meeting Firestone quality in tubes others must go above Firestone in price.

Because, as stated, no one else manufactures and markets as economically as Firestone—or seriously pretends to.

But we are no more proud of giving you the best tube below the others than we are of giving you the best tire for so little more.

And the proof of appreciation among car owners lies in the fact that their demand for Firestones last year established 50 per cent more dealers for us and increased our output 78 per cent.

So compare the tires inside. Compare the prices. Compare the service records among your acquaintances—then get Firestones from your dealer and enjoy

It also looks after the possible damage and corrects all tendency to blood eruptions, decay of bones, clogging of joints and any and all of those myriad of destructive effects such as rheumatism, catarrh, swollen glands, sore throat, bronchial affections and the host of infirmities so well known as being caused by impure blood. And now, why should S. S. S. do all this? Simply because it is Nature's antidote, a remedy of searching influence. It contains a powerful, natural ingredient, that sweeps its way to the skin. And in doing this it not only annihilates destructive germs but causes them to be so converted that they are easily and harmlessly voided, expelled or destroyed and then driven out through the natural outlets of the body. Effects of Immigration. Immigration moves westward more rapidly. The inviting prairie became dotted with abattoirs. Somebody begins to raise corn, then more corn, and more and more, until raising corn becomes the chief occupation and raising cattle secondary. The law which must exist for man's convenience must likewise change. And so the legislature of the state of Illinois passed an act to the effect that thereafter it should be unlawful for the owner of any animals such as horses, asses, mules, cattle, sheep, goats, swine and including geese, to permit the same to run at large. (See Illinois Revised Statutes, Chapter 8, Sections 1 and 2.) Thereafter the Supreme Court of Illinois, in Bullitt vs. Matthews, 45 Illinois, 316, in passing upon a case where Matthews' stock had escaped into the highway without Matthews' fault, and from there entered upon Bullitt's uninclosed lands, held that the passage of this statute had abrogated the earlier Illinois law and established in its stead the old English common law rule of absolute liability upon the owner of stock, and that Matthews must answer in damages to Bullitt for the trespass. So that today, in Illinois, if a careless fisherman leaves A's gate open, and A's cattle escape into the highway, and from thence into B's land, A is liable for the damage here done, even though B's land was not fenced. In other words, the owner of stock in Illinois must now at his peril keep his stock at home.

Running at Large. This harsh rule on the owner of stock is not applied, however, to all situations. If the stock is being driven along the highway to market, it is not unlawfully "running at large" within the meaning of the statute referred to. By virtue of another Illinois statute (Ill. Revised Statutes, Chapter 54, Section 29), the land owner cannot recover for the trespass of such stock unless he has his land inclosed with a "good and sufficient" fence. That is to say, as against stock thus lawfully on the public highway, the landowner must provide himself reasonable protection.

There is also one other situation in which the landowner must show that he has maintained a "good and sufficient" fence in order to recover for the trespass of such stock unless he has his land inclosed with a "good and sufficient" fence. That is to say, as against stock thus lawfully on the public highway, the landowner must provide himself reasonable protection.

There is also one other situation in which the landowner must show that he has maintained a "good and sufficient" fence in order to recover for the trespass of such stock unless he has his land inclosed with a "good and sufficient" fence. reasonable protection. There is also one other situation in which the landowner must show that he has maintained a "good and sufficient" fence in order to recover against the owner of the trespassing stock. If A and B are the owners of adjoining enclosed lands, the law imposes upon each the duty of maintaining one-half the division fence. In such case, if B's cattle enter A's land, A must show either that the entry was made through B's half of the fence, or if through A's half, that it was not due to the defective conditions of the fence.

Chapter 54, Section 2, provides that shall constitute a legal fence: Fences four and one-half feet high, and in good repair, consisting of rails, timber, boards, stone, hedges, barbed wire, or whatever the fence owners of the town or precinct here the same shall be shall constitute a legal and sufficient fence.

EMPHASIZES THE NECESSITY OF OPENING BANKS IN S. AMERICA

Vice-Chairman of Federal Trade Commission Addresses Rockford Manufacturers and Shippers Association.

Rockford, Ill., March 20.—The necessity for the establishing of branch banks in South America to facilitate trade from this country, was emphasized tonight by Edward N. Hurley, vice chairman of the federal trade commission, in an address before the Rockford manufacturers and shippers' association. It is now possible for the National banks to establish branches abroad and they are also now permitted to accept foreign drafts of bills of lading, said Mr. Hurley.

"But this is not enough, American bankers should now follow the procession into foreign lands. It will be difficult for capital to escape the conclusions that the line between domestic and foreign business is becoming fainter and fainter and that mere geographical boundaries should no longer confine healthful co-operation of industry and capital, which has made this country great. Why not let investors, bankers, manufacturers, railroad and steamship men, steadily pull together for the systematic expansion of our foreign trade?"

CHILEAN CRUISERS TAKE CREW OF DRESDEN TO VALPARISO

VALPARISO, March 20.—The Chilean Cruisers Esmeralda and Ministro Zenteno arrived here today from Juan Fernandez Island with the crew of the German cruiser Dresden, which was destroyed in an action with British warships off the island on March 14th. The members of the crew will be detained here on board the German steamer York.

No official announcement has yet been made as to the result of the investigation into the naval fight by the Chilean government. The Chilean schooner Argentina, however, has arrived from the scene of the battle where she was damaged by shells and the members of her crew confirm the German version of the encounter which was that the Dresden was attacked in Chilean waters, being at anchor in Cumberland Bay on the north side of the island.

THE RELATIONS OF WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE TO THE HUMAN WORLD UPLIFT.

In the solution of human advance this advance is not attained without battle. Old faiths, beliefs, customs, practices of a people have and do give way by being supplanted by other faiths, beliefs, customs, practices, but these other adopted faiths, beliefs, practices were fought by the old, the established modes and ways of the thinking and doing of a people.

Those who have become "fired" with the New Spirit of Twentieth Century Human Advance are fought by those who prefer to have all things to remain as they want them as established by their fathers. The battle of the Old against the New has always waged fiercely and deadly, giving death to the old faiths and practices.

There are those who choose to live in dugouts and caves in preference to coming out of the dwellings of their minds and hearts and advance out of the caves and travel towards the mountain tops where a more glorious view is had of human possibilities of further progress, yet to be attained through and by battle against the cave dwellers.

But it is a fact of history, that the vast part of the human world battle against any invasion of the few which disturbs the old order of human social adjustments. Hence, Woman Suffrage has battled, does battle, must battle that part of the cave dwellers who still live in the caves of their mind's ignorance, prejudices, fears and do not desire that the sunlight of human progress invade their cave dwellings.

Woman's Place in Nature, that is, in the human social world from the point of view of evolution, science and philosophy is not yet discerned by science. Huxley found man's place from the evolutionary point and put forth his find in a book titled, Man's Place in Nature. But Woman's Place is not yet seen by scholars, savants, sociologists, politicians, nor theologians.

True, the whole world, from the savage on up to the Twentieth Century civilizations has given her a place as a beast of burden, a place between house walls and harbors as mistress, wife, mother, servant of husband, child, house cleaner, cook, adjuster and washer of clothes and regulator of the inner contents of the house for the sum of her board and clothes. But, in these "latter days" the "wakened women" rebel and have abandoned the caves of her environment and have entered the wage system of making dollars like men do. Woman now labors wherever work is to be had of mind and hands, in all places of human labor.

But, woman does not yet find her sphere in the labor world in becoming economically free. This freedom gives another form of slavery, moiling, toiling, in factory, store, offices, from morning to night, week in and out, year in and out, the same old grind, and her slavery is now as great as that of her brother man. Woman's sphere is not yet found. It extends out of and beyond the wage system. If this were her true place in the social system of life, she would find the greatest satisfaction of mind and heart in her economic place in the social world. But, in the depths of her heart to make dollars grows galling in time, and dread slavery is "felt" to be on them.

But woman has entered the political arena and seeks to function in this arena as does her brother man. In so doing, there are those who hold up hands in holy horror, and are sure, that this political arena is not woman's place. They begin to quote Paul, that woman has no place, save at home with children, and if she wishes to know anything, she should go to her husband for the information. Invariably, however, the moss back lady do not know as much as do their wives about anything while.

The moss back lady of religion affairs, that if women go to the polls and vote as men do, they thereby disobey Paul's commands, and also, degrade themselves and bring shame to their husbands and brothers. In this, the moss back religious lady find Woman's Place to be as it was in the past, at home, between walls to slave for board and clothes.

But, see, if voting degrades women. It degrades and debases men who vote and mix in politics. It is to be inferred, that voting and politics, in themselves, are processes which tend to infect and corrupt all who touch them and, therefore, corrupts women and men. Of course this is an absurd conclusion. If men, however, are corrupted by political processes, it is for this reason, that women should enter into the political arena alongside of men. Because their influence is such, that politics will become urged, cleaned, by women functioning as voters and preachers of a purged politics. A New Politics, made such by the uplifting influence of women.

It is because the moral and spiritual elements have fallen to so low an ebb in the male civilizations, that the call comes to women to put forth their moral and spiritual power to save humanity, not only politically, but in every department of the social life now submerged in materiality. Why the call to women? Because of her richer endowment of these elements of man's soul nature. She only can save the human collectivity since, it is clearly seen, that man has exhausted all his resources to check the human world destruction for his every move to that end, proves to make things more destructive.

Henry Fairbank Enroute to India Gives Interesting Travel Notes

Henry Fairbank in a recent letter to relatives here, dated from the Straits of Dover, tells in a very interesting way of his stay in England and his voyage on the way to India. A presentation of David Copperfield at His Majesty's theatre is declared one of the most entertaining sights in England. The traveler relates several incidents of travel, occasioned by war conditions which are of special interest.

Dear Alan:

We are here anchored off the town of Deal, or the town just south of Deal. Evidently they are afraid to go on without permission from the authorities somewhere. We came down the Thames to near its mouth and anchored there for the night with a lot of other boats. This morning early, that is, about half past six, we started off and in about three hours and a half we came down here, and here we have been for an hour or more waiting for something. Two torpedo boats have gone by us and there are others at the rear, and no one of course gives us any idea what they are waiting for, except to say that it is not safe to go ahead, which we knew beforehand. In London we had a surprise in an announcement that, as Aliens, we were not to embark at the Royal Albert dock, but at the pier in Tilbury, where a tender would take us off to the ship. This gave us a couple of more hours in London, as the train for the Royal Albert dock went at 9:50, and our train for Tilbury did not start till 12:25. Mommy stayed and packed, and got ready generally, while I went down to Cook's office, and got a parcel that was there and also got a watch that had been left to be fixed. We both dropped our watches and broke the bearings of the balance wheel, and we knew that London was better for fixing Waltham watches than Bombay. I also got a little fruit, as these P. & O. boats do not have as much fruit as one likes and needs. We went down to the Fenchurch street station in taxis, the Hastings and we, as a taxi in London at least, and I guess about everywhere, costs no more than other vehicles, and goes very much faster. It took an hour to get down to Tilbury, and on the way a young soldier got in and was very free to talk. He told about marching 20 miles a day carrying 96 pounds of kit. That morning they had been having bayonet practice, with springs in place of regular bayonets. He said he got a blow in his chest that rolled him over. He goes next month to France, as he has been training six months. He was just over 19 years old. We asked him about shields, and he said the English carry no shields of any kind. If they have their kit on their shift that around to protect their chests. The Germans we understand, carry shields sometimes. Then he said, a shield would really be of no use, as the bullet the English use goes through 22 inches of oak. The guns are sighted up to 3 miles, but of course it is difficult to hit a mark at that distance. They fire at about a thousand yards up to 2000 yards.

At Tilbury we had a surprise in having to go before an inspector who looked at our tickets and stamped them, before we were allowed to go on board the tender. The man who went in to see the inspector just ahead of us had a hard time getting in, as his passport was dated the 15th of February, and yesterday was only the 13th. They asked him all manner of questions and I think that finally he was allowed to come on board.

At dinner time I sat next to a man, who told me he was on a ship that was blown up near Havre two weeks ago yesterday. They were waiting for a pilot, and the ship sank in a very few minutes after the torpedo hit it, but all on board were saved. This man said he got off with the shirt of his back, and that was all. He is going back to Port Said, and I could not hear distinctly what he said about himself. I shall try to find out what his business is. There was another boat in the harbor at Havre that the submarine tried to get, but did not. The paper yesterday told of an attempt to torpedo a merchant ship going into Amsterdam. The submarine had a machine gun and fired at it, when it would not stop. Finally it discharged a torpedo, which missed. These stories make us realize that we are in a dangerous sea. But the English do not seem to be afraid, they are only determined to take care that ships shall not be damaged.

Last night we were awfully cold. I piled on all the blankets I could get and then my feet were cold for the longest time. Mommy also was cold, though she wrapped a blanket round her in between the sheets. We have had an unpleasant time getting our seats at table. I spoke to the steward yesterday afternoon as we have to and asked that the Hastings and we be put together, and he assigned us seats together. At dinner time we came down to find that the seats, or at least two of them were claimed by other people. They came in late, and had to go somewhere else. This morning they got down first, and it was some time before the matter was arranged. The trouble was the chief steward did not put down the names of the two who claimed the Hastings' seats, at the time they asked him to, and he gave those seats to us. He is evidently new to the business. We thought at first that the other people were trying to get seats not properly theirs, just to get near their own friends, but we found that they had to get on at the Royal Albert dock, and had had lunch before us and had spoken to the steward about the seats before we spoke to him.

The boat is one of the smaller P. & O. boats, and is more a cargo boat than a passenger boat, and so the accommodation is not so good as it might be. A number of people are getting off at Gibraltar, I believe, and there will be plenty of room from there on. We shall be glad to get on as far as that, and be out of the "military area". Our cabin is the rearmost in the boat, almost over the screw, and the churning of the water is just as plain, and the vibration of the boat is just as plain as can be. We shall get used to it in time.

One day, Thursday, we spent in going about London, and seeing something. The Zoo was attractive to us and we went up there, taking Great Portland street on the way. Mr. and Mrs. Starling of the Industrial Missions Aid Society have their office there, and we had a good visit with them. They had a lot of India carpets from Ahmednagar, at the rooms, and they told us news about Nagar that we had not known. Mr. Veal, who was in Nagar, went away about six months ago, and we did not know the circumstances of his going at all. The Starlings told us that he got a salary of 500 rupees a month in his new place, more than twice what he was getting at Nagar, and he has a house and also a motor car at his service. That salary means that he can educate his children well. There are four of them now, and they are very nice children. We hope he will have no troubles there. He went away to Mussorie some 7 years ago, and found so much graft in the place that he simply was not willing to stay, and came back to us as fast as he could. Here in this new place he is the head man, and can stop all graft.

It is the 18th and we are off the coast of Portugal, and shall soon round Cape St. Vincent. At lunch-time we passed Cape Roca, which is a very fine promontory, jutting out into the sea. We passed near by, so that we could see the houses on the shore. All the way from Cape Finisterre, which is the North-western point of Spain, we have passed many steamers. The track they follow is narrow here and all meet. A little while ago we passed the Malaga, one of the biggest of the P. & O. steamers, a 12,000 ton boat, running to Australia. She was a very fine looking boat. We wish we were in as fine a boat. This is distinctly a cargo boat, one of the intermediate steamers, whose highest speed is about 13 knots an hour. We were told at first it was 14 knots an hour, but she has made so far not more than 12, and in the Bay of Biscay she made about 8 an hour, but the storm there made that necessary. It seems as if we were getting all the bad weather there is around. Mommy and I are in the rearmost cabin, right over the screw and every once in a while, that night when the storm was at its height the screw would come out of the water, and race, till you would think the ship was going to pieces. We both finally got to sleep but we were glad to get into smoother water yesterday. We were to have got into Gibraltar on Thursday night, but we shall not get there till Friday afternoon. It looks now as if we were going to be three or four days late in Bombay. Well, "Safety First" is the motto. We had some lovely sunshine yesterday and the spirits of those who had been horribly sick, revived perceptibly. This morning there were rain squalls a good part of the morning and then the beautiful sunshining appeared and every one went and sat right in it. It has rained again this afternoon, but now the sun is shining.

I have not told you about a treat we had in London. We went to see David Copperfield at "His Majesty's" theatre. The chief actor was Sir Herbert Tree, who took the parts of both Daniel Peggotty and Micawber, and he acted his parts to perfection, and so did the others. It was well worth while going, though we did not get home till half past eleven. Of all the characters in that book, many were eliminated. David Copperfield himself was there in almost every scene, and then his aunt, Betsey Trotwood with Mr. Dick and his kite. That kite performed a useful office one time, when David announced his engagement to Agnes. Mr. Dick drove the kite out and carefully held the kite so that no one could see David kissing Agnes. Then of course the boat house at Yarmouth comes in with Daniel Peggotty and his sister, Clara, who had been David's nurse, with old Mrs. Gammidge, "The poor lorn critter" and Ham and Little Emily, and Steerforth. One of the finest parts of the play was the place where the news comes that Emily has run off with Steerforth. The simple reality of the acting just made the tears come, in spite of all you could do. Then there were the scenes with Mr. Micawber and Mrs. Micawber, and those with Uriah Heep and his mother. One of the first scenes is where Uriah comes in to see David, and is invited by David to have a cup of coffee. He reeled on by his very looks, his rubbing his hands and his leer, and his vivid red hair, but when he got to his coffee, that was the climax. It was hot and so Uriah poured it into his saucer, and drank it from that making the most disgusting noise while he did so. It almost made one sick to his stomach. Micawber was fine also. His punch and his grandiloquence and his eulogies of Mrs. Micawber simply sent you into roars of laughter. But I cannot tell you all of the fun of it.

At noon on Sunday we started off from that town where we had anchored, and soon passed Dover. We went on till about ten o'clock, and then went slowly and finally anchored for the night, starting again in the morning to go into the harbor of Dartmouth and Weymouth. Dartmouth was at one side and Weymouth on the mainland right opposite. No one could find out why we went into that harbor, but we went in and a pilot boat came and went with messages, and then we steamed out again, and from that time we have steamed very steadily.

Today is the day for the blockade of British ports by the Germans, and we would like very well to know what is going to be the outcome. As far as we could see the German submarines were torpedoing merchant ships before their declaration of a "Military Area". This declaration seemed to be more to keep neutrals out than to inaugurate any new warfare against the English. The neutrals say they will not keep out and so the game is reduced to what it was before. I have been reading a book by a Gibbons, who used to be a professor of History in Robert College. The book is called "The New Map of Europe," and it is about as informing a book as any I have read. It is impartial too, but the story he tells is strongly against Germany. One thing he says seemed to me very apt. Keeping the peace of Europe, as the phrase is used by the powers, means "Getting what you can for yourself without fighting for it." The picture of European diplomacy afraid of the other powers, and trying to bully the Sultan of Turkey, while jealous of each other, is really humiliating to any one who calls himself a Christian. No wonder Abdul Hamid had a profound contempt for the harmony (concert) of the "Powers." This book gives details of many things that are referred to in the papers, for example, the conference of Algiers and the affair of Agadir. It also tells particulars of the Balkan war that I never got before. If you want a book that is really full of information on European politics during the last few years, get this book. He also tells of German aims on the Turkish Empire, and of the building of the Constantinople to Baghdad railroad, and the partition of Persia. But get the book and read it.

The Hastings have been very seasick. Yesterday they spent in bed, and this morning Mommy went in and offered to bring Harriet, the little girl, out. Then they came out themselves. I know what traveling with little children is. If you have to fuss with their dressing and their food, you get seasick yourself, just as sure as fate.

Nearing Gibraltar, 19th February, 1915. We are glad to see the sunlight this morning, though up to a little while ago, it was raining. The deck is small, with no awning at present, and the ladies saloon is very very small, and so we are uncomfortable enough, when it rains and if you cannot go out on the deck. But we are grateful as she is today. There were a good many ladies on this morning at breakfast. They have been in their berths the last two days and a half. One of them found the air in her cabin too close, so she brought the mattress out to the entry way and slept there night and day. Seasickness has a curious effect on almost every one. They lose all sense of shamefacedness right off.

I have just been getting stamps. I went and asked the cost of a letter to the U. S., and was told it was two pence halfpenny, but the new one looked at was eight pence only a penny, and the new rules make it only a penny. The letters must be mailed on board the ship, then it is the same as if it were mailed in England. We shall answer up all letters that we can, before we have to pay the higher rate, as we do in India.

There is nothing very much to add. You may be interested to know that we have on board some engineers going to Alexandria to bring back from there a German ship that was captured some months ago. She is a big boat of 10,000 tons. Then we have a lady and her child going to Tangier, which is in Morocco opposite Gibraltar, only on the ocean side not the Mediterranean side, of the Straits. Then there are ladies going back to India to join their husbands or to get married. I am like with some. We have opposite to us a man who has been in service in India for over thirty years. What his position has been we do not know, but he was called home to get some honor of the Star of India. That was for length of service. He lives in Allahabad. Another man is going out to start and superintend a factory for making Portland cement. This is in a native state, and is probably to be the property of the state. A great many of the states are doing all kinds of manufacturing, and making a good thing out of it. But goodbye for now. We are to be in Gibraltar by two o'clock they say. Love to you all from us both.

Your father,
Henry Fairbank.

"BILLY" SUNDAY
ENDS CAMPAIGN.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 20.—In his famous tabernacle, where he has exhorted many thousands to turn over a new leaf, "Billy" Sunday, the "baseball evangelist," will tomorrow close his long campaign against vice of every kind in Philadelphia. Eleven weeks is the remarkable extent of this revival campaign, and Mr. Sunday has preached at least twice a day to crowded audiences.

BACHELORS GIVEN SOME ADVICE ON HOW TO PICK A GOOD W.F.F.E.

Dr. Winfield S. Hall Declares Health Hereditary Influence, Education and Years a Big Factor—Table of Marrying Ages.

Professor Winfield S. Hall of Northwestern University Medical school gave a lecture recently on "Choosing a Wife". In the course of his remarks he said:

"I don't see any bald heads in the audience," said Dr. Hall, "so I take it for granted you all are good candidates for marriage."

"By that I mean you have sound health, are morally clean and can support a wife if you can win one."

Tells How To Choose.

"Imagine the girls of your acquaintance lined up before you. Out of the possible six to twenty girls you are to choose a wife. Which one will you choose?"

"Four things must be considered—her health, her hereditary qualities, her education and her age."

"Exclude from the ranks the girl of poor health. It's a calamity for a man to marry such a girl. Some of you may say the girl might get well. Let her get better before you marry her."

"Let her go out into the woods for a year or so and develop the ability to walk fifteen or twenty miles and return without fatigue and with Dame Nature's priceless rouge upon her cheeks. Then you may marry her, knowing she is of good health."

"Don't marry a girl just because she has a pretty figure and large lustrous eyes and is a beautiful dancer if at 20 she has only the mind of a girl 12 years old."

Gives Marrying Maxims.

Among other suggestions he gave to the man considering choosing a wife were:

"Don't marry an heiress—one with more than $15,000 or $20,000. You may become unhappy with her and her money."

"Don't marry into a family where there are traces of insanity or feeble-mindedness."

Look up the health record of her parents and grandparents.

Avoid the daughter of a confirmed alcoholic.

"Don't marry a girl just because she knows Latin and Greek. It is nothing against her if she has had a college education, provided she knows how to cook meals, make clothes and care for children."

When he came to that part of his lecture referring to the ages for marriage he turned to the blackboard, wrote down some figures, and said:

Gives Marrying Ages.

"According to the best scientific research the figures on the board show the relative ages at which men and women should marry."

Here is the table as he wrote it:

A man of 21 should marry a girl between 19 and 23 years.
At 25—one between 21 and 27.
At 30—one between 23 and 28.
At 35—one between 25 and 30.
At 40—one between 25 and 33.
At 45—one between 25 and 35.
At 50—one between 30 and 38.
At 60—one between 45 and 60.
At 70—one between 50 and 60.
At 80—one between 60 and 70.

"When a man gets to be 50 years old," he continued, "he should expect to raise a family. I advise such a man to marry a widow with several children."

When Man Needs Nurse.

"When a man of 60 or more marries it is only for the purpose of having a nurse during his declining years. It is unfair for him to marry anyone younger than himself. He should marry a childless widow or an old maid."

The lecture was one of a series arranged by the physical department of the association.

Fire at Center Point—Fire completely destroyed the J. O. Swanson residence, one and one-half miles east of Center Point, Thursday night, burning the entire structure, except for the foundation and chimney.

Farm Residence Destroyed—The farm residence of L. B. Kinsey in Spring Lake township, Tazewell county, was totally destroyed by fire last Monday night. The fire started from a defective flue and the family barely managed to escape. The house, a new one, cost $1,600 and was insured for $1,050. But little of the furniture was saved.

One Butcher's Motto—When William Beier opened a small butcher shop in Chicago years ago, he took for his motto, "I deal square." Aided by his frugal wife, he amassed a fortune of $200,000 in the ensuing years. Then discord arose, they were divorced, and Beier, who had turned 65, took another wife. Wednesday he died. In his will, the contents of his entire fortune were bequeathed to his first wife, minus the legal dowry due by law to his second wife. Beier left $1 to a step-daughter. "I deal square," said the document. "Phillipina (the first wife) helped me make it."

Robbers Blow Safe—With a roar heard for blocks, robbers early Friday dynamited the big safe of the Butter company on West Seventh street, Chicago, and escaped with nearly $1,000 in cash. This is the third time in 20 months the Consumers' company has been robbed.

Names Deputy Assessors—John Broecker, assessor and treasurer for Cass county, has named the following deputy assessors, who will enter upon their work April 1: D. O. Hill, Frank Devlin, Benjamin Bell, Howard Turley and George Schweer in township 17; Allen Watkins, George Armstrong, William Brown and Robert Phillips in township 18; Robert Piller in township 19.

Miss Alleane Bauer has returned to her home in Merced after completing her course at the Jacksonville Business college.

SWEET CLOVER IS GAINING IN FAVOR

Is Now Looked to as a Promising
Manure and Seed Crop—Methods of Seeding.

(By O. M. Allyn, Farm Crops Division, University of Illinois.)

There are three species of sweet clover which are at all abundant in the United States. They are as follows: white biennial sweet clover (Melilotus alba), large yellow biennial sweet clover (Melilotus officinalis), and the small yellow annual sweet clover (Melilotus indica). The white biennial sweet clover is the one spoken of usually, and is referred to merely as sweet clover. Both the biennial and the annual yellow sweet clovers are considered impractical from the grower's standpoint on account of the small growth they make.

Adaptability. Sweet clover has been and is yet considered a serious weed by many farmers, but on account of its hardiness and wide range of adaptability to soils and climate it is gaining in favor and is now looked to as a promising manure and seed crop. Like most leguminous crops, it makes its best growth where there is an abundance of limestone in the soils. It can be grown on low alkali land where clover and other crops are failures, and on clay soils very low in organic matter.

Seed. Two kinds of sweet clover seed are found on the market, namely, hulled and unhulled. Because of the hard seed coats found in the seed of sweet clover, a low percentage of germination results. To overcome this, it is advisable to sow from 20 to 30 pounds of seed per acre, of the hulled seed and five more pounds where the unhulled seed is sown. Seed may be treated with commercial concentrated sulphuric acid for half an hour to soften the seed coats, and thus increase the percentage of germination. After treating with acid the desired length of time, the seed should be washed with liberal quantities of running water. Care should be taken to use of great deal of water to prevent burning when the water comes in contact with the acid. Spread the seed out on the floor to dry. They should be stirred at intervals until they are thoroughly dry.

Inoculation. Inoculation is just as essential for sweet clover as it is for alfalfa, and unless it is applied one need not expect good results. The best method of inoculating it is to use about one pint of glue solution to one bushel of seed. This is made by dissolving six ounces of carpenter's glue to one gallon of water. Spread the seed out on a canvas, sprinkle on the glue solution, mix the seed thoroughly until all are well covered with the solution, then sprinkle on one quart per bushel of well sifted inoculated dirt. Care should be taken not to let the sun strike the dirt or the seed after inoculation.

Seeding. There are several methods of seeding, namely: 1. Sow seed in February, or early March, in winter wheat while the ground is still honeycombed with freezing and thawing. 2. Sow with nurse crop of small grain as barley or early oats. 3. Sow about middle of May on fall plowed land, which has been thoroughly disked and harrowed. 4. Sow after removing small grain crop by disking immediately. Seed sown this way should be sown before first of August.

MORE RESOLUTIONS PASSED. Resolved, that we favor an emergency appropriation by the Illinois legislature to pay owners 50 per cent of the appraised value of stock slaughtered on account of the foot and mouth disease, and to pay all other necessary expenses in connection with the eradication of the diseases, and, be it further, Resolved, that we urge that the utmost efforts be used to check the spread of the disease from infected farms and to eradicate it completely from the state at the earliest possible moment.

Whereas, the state efficiency and economy commission has recommended that all agricultural boards receiving state aid be consolidated to form one board of agriculture, members of the board and its secretary to be appointed by the governor, and

Whereas, we believe that such an arrangement would subject the work of the Illinois Farmers' Institute to undue political influence and greatly reduce its efficiency as an educational agency, as well as destroying its character as a representative agricultural body, therefore be it

Resolved, that we are opposed to any plan that will subject the Illinois Farmers' Institute to political control or to the exigencies of partisan politics.

Resolved, that we favor a law prohibiting the importation of dairy and breeding stock into the state except when accompanied by a state or federal certificate showing such stock to be free from dangerous communicable diseases.

Whereas, the present hog cholera serum plant is entirely inadequate to supply the needs of the state, and Whereas, the policy of supplying serum free of charge has not been wholly satisfactory for several reasons,

Therefore be it resolved, that we favor an appropriation by the legislature to remodel the Illinois serum plant so as to make possible the production of an adequate supply of serum under sanitary conditions, such serum to be sold to Illinois farmers at the cost of production.

RUN OVER BY CAR

Two men had a narrow escape this Saturday morning when Samuel Wilcox and a party of four men were coming to town from Alexander. When at the crossing of the C. B. & Q. railroad, east of Oak Lawn, they noticed two men on the overhead bridge. Mr. Wilcox was driving his Ford car and naturally supposed that they saw him and would get out of the way, which they did by stepping under the bridge. Mr. Wilcox, in the excitement, stopped his car and went back to see what had become of the men and found them seated on a beam smoking cigarettes. Mr. Wilcox was very agreeably surprised, for he explained that he had driven his Ford one hundred thousand miles and had never killed anybody yet, and that he expected to drive it as many more miles, then sell it and buy another Ford. He further stated that the reason he liked his Ford was because it was always ready to go, and that the running expense is comparatively nothing.

Thus we score one more for the Ford. C. N. Priest, the Ford man, has just received a message from Mr. Hawkins, manager of sales of the Ford Motor company at Detroit, in which he said that they had just received orders for ninety-six thousand Ford cars, to be delivered at once; and now do you think there is any doubt about purchasers of Ford cars getting the refund? We answer, "NO." Take your pencil and figure for yourself and you will readily see what your car will cost you.

Runabout, $160.00, F. O. B. Jacksonville.

Touring car, $510.00, F. O. B. Jacksonville. Take from that the refund of from $40 to $60 and see what it will cost you for the "BEST CAR ON GOD'S DIRT."

These are facts regardless of what somebody else might say. Get rid of that false pride and buy a Ford if you would live long and prosper.

TAKE MAN ON CHARGE OF THROWING HIS TWO CHILDREN OUT OF WINDOW

Police State Prisoner Said he Threw Children out of Window Because
He Was Tired of Supporting Them.

Philadelphia, March 20.—Samuel Liebman of New York, who is charged with throwing his two small children out of the fifth story window of a tenement last Wednesday resulting in the death of one and the serious injury of the other, was arrested here tonight by New York and Philadelphia detectives. Liebman admitted his identity, and according to the detectives, said he threw the children out of the window because he was tired of supporting them.

The arrest was brought about through a letter which Liebman sent to Nathan Cohen, a brother-in-law in New York, in which he asked Cohen to meet him at a certain street corner in Philadelphia and provide him with funds so that he could go to Galveston, Texas, where he had friends. Cohen turned the letter over to the police and the detectives tonight found Liebman waiting for the brother-in-law. The prisoner will be given a hearing and turned over to the New York authorities.

SCOTT'S THEATRE

TWO DAYS—THURSDAY AND FRIDAY
MARCH 25th and 25th

A positive guarantee that this picture has never been shown in Jacksonville before. This is the original QUO VADIS in 8 reels.

Since George Kleine made his enormous success of the Cines photo-drama "Quo Vadis," a host of cheap imitators have entered the field of competition. However, as the Kleine production includes eight wonderful reels and is only produced in the high class theatres of the country and has never been leased for state rights or ordinary moving picture houses, the general public have been quick to discriminate between the big and the little "Quo Vadis." In the big cities of the East, Mr. Kleine's production was taken up by the fashionable society and theatre parties of the "four hundred" were a frequent occurrence at the Astor Theatre in New York. The George Kleine production of "Quo Vadis" will be the attraction at Scott's theatre. Shows will start promptly at 2:30, 4:30, 6:30, and 8:30. Will run through the supper hour. Adults, 20c; Children, 10c.

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and do all I can to recommend it."—Mrs. A. B. BOSCAM, 504 E. Howard Street, Creston, Iowa.

EUROPEAN WAR NOTES

Paris, March 20.—(4:45 p. m.)—Statistics of the foreign trade of France during the first two months of 1915 show a decrease, as compared with 1914 of 632,000,000 francs ($126,400,000) a month equally divided between exports and imports. MISGIVINGS REGARDING WAR
DEVELOPMENTS DEPRESS WHEAT

Prices Close Steady at a Net Decline of 1/2 to 3/4—Other Grain
Shows a Loss.

Chicago, March 20.—Misgivings that European developments before
Monday would be against the bulls had a depressing effect today on the wheat market here. Prices, however, closed steady at a decline of 1/2 to 3/4 net. Other grain, too, showed a loss for the day—corn 1/4
@ 1/2 to 3/4 and oats 1/2 to 3/4 @ 1/2.

In provisions the outcome varied from the same as last night to 7 1/2
@ 10c below.

Despite the fact that rumors of a final split between Austria and Italy had turned out untrue, not much confidence seemed to have been restored to holders of wheat.
An early advance in prices here,

Polarine

—a 6,295,514 Gallon Increase

What better argues correct lubrication for any make or type of car?

Remember, please, that all this great gallonage has come over to Polarine within seven years—in the face of widespread competition.

Remember, also, that lubricating oil is, of all motoring necessities, the most important and therefore the most carefully chosen by those who wish to preserve car values.

Such an increase means this: Those who first bought it are still buying Polarine—and new thousands each year, because of what these users tell them, are also choosing "the standard oil for motors."

Polarine maintains the correct lubricating body at every motor speed or temperature—it unfaillingly lubricates every frictional part and protects metal surfaces with a smooth, durable film of oil—it minimizes carbon deposits, stops deterioration and permits the maximum fuel-power to get through to the wheels.

Use the preferred product in any line and you are usually safe in your choice.

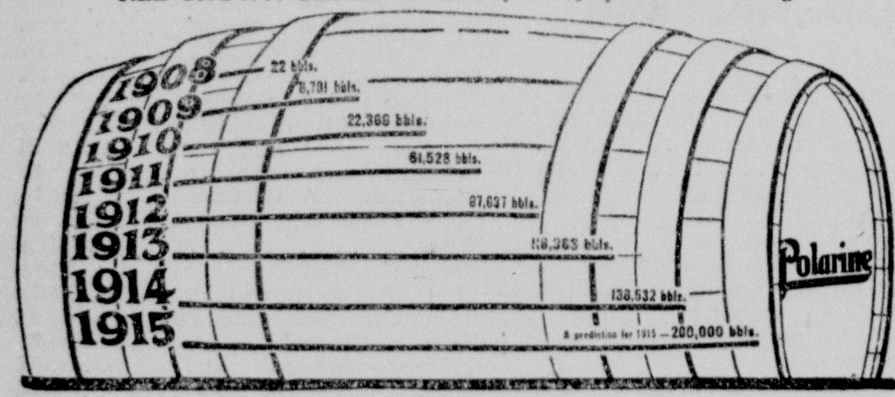

Polarine is made by specialists in the greatest plant of its kind where every facility makes for the utmost in results. (317)

GIRLS! GIRLS! TRY IT. BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR

Make It Thick, Glossy, Wavy, Luxuriant and Remove All Dandruff.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Dandierine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Dandierine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Dandierine dissolves every particle of dandruff, cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Dandierine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.—Advertisement.

WOULD RE-ORGANIZE THE STATE SERVICE

EFFICIENCY AND ECONOMY COMMITTEE MAKES REPORT TO LEGISLATURE.

Investigation Has Covered Period of Eighteen Months—Supplementary Reports Will be Made—General Plan Proposed is in Line With Organization of Executive Departments of the National Government.

Springfield, Ill., March 26.—Complete reorganization of the state services, upon the general principles followed in the organization of the executive departments of the United States government, is recommended in the report of the state efficiency and economy committee, made public today. The report is the result of a comprehensive and intense survey of the numerous state offices, boards and commissions, conducted during the last eighteen months, and said to be the most thorough investigation of state administrative service ever made in any state of the union.

The committee's general report will be followed with a series of reports, prepared under the direction of the committee, on the various branches of its work. There also will be prepared a set of bills for introduction at the present legislative session, providing for the changes recommended.

Serious defects in the present arrangement are reported by the investigators, with the result that disorganization and confusion exist in the executive departments, producing inefficiency and waste. Upon this point the committee summarizes as follows:

"There is unnecessary duplication of positions and salaries; not only in the chief officers of each separate bureau or board, but still more in their staffs of clerks and employees. But this is the smallest part of the loss. The work that is undertaken is not well done; and costs much more for the results obtained than with a more efficient organization. Supplies in many cases are purchased in small quantities for each office or institution which could be secured at lower prices if purchased in larger quantities on contracts based on competitive bids, as is done by the board of administration for the charitable institutions.

"The absence of definite correlation and co-operation between the most closely related offices necessarily leads to loss and inefficient work. The only supervision provided by law over most of the executive offices, boards and commissions, burdens the governor with a mass of unnecessary detail which no single individual can effectively handle and at the same time does not afford him either the time or the facilities for the proper determination of the more important questions of administrative and legislative policy.

"The present arrangements also fail to provide the general assembly with adequate information or advice to enable it to perform its work wisely, either in making appropriations or in enacting substantive legislation. And while reports are made and published, they are so numerous and poorly organized that the general public fails to receive satisfactory information of the work that is done and has no satisfactory means for fixing responsibility, or of discriminating between those officials who perform their work well and those who perform it poorly or not at all."

After discussing in detail the alleged lack of correlation, scattered offices, lack of standards of compensation, overlapping functions, irregularity of reports, ineffective supervision, no budget system, imperfect accounts, inadequate advice on legislation and irresponsible government and reciting what has been done in other states and by the national government to correct similar abuses, the committee sets out its plan for proposed departments, divisions and bureaus.

The plan contemplates ten main departments as follows:

Department of Finance—Under a state finance commission to consist of a state comptroller, tax commissioner and revenue commissioner to be appointed by the governor and senate with the auditor of public accounts and state treasurer ex-officio. Each of these officials will be in charge of a particular division, with finance commission exercising specified powers of supervision over the whole system of finance administration. The comptroller will be charged with the preparation of a budget and with supervision over expenditures and the installation of accounts of state officers. The tax commissioner will deal with the assessment of property for taxation, and the revenue commissioner will administer the inheritance tax, automobile licenses and perhaps other state revenues. The auditor and treasurer will in the main continue their present functions with the auditor's auditing powers increased.

Charities and Corrections—To include the present board of administration for charitable institutions a board of prison administration for the penitentiaries and reformatory and the charities commission with powers of inspection and recommendation over both classes of institutions.

Education—To include the state superintendent of public instruction a single normal school board, the board of trustees for the University of Illinois, the state library, a commission on natural resources to coordinate and harmonize the several educational agencies of the state.

Public Works and Buildings—Under a public works commission of three members, one to be the commissioner of highways, one commissioner of waterways and one fish commissioner; with bureaus for each of three services, and also other bureaus under the supervision of the superintendent of buildings and grounds, the superintendent of state parks and the state art commission.

Agriculture—Under a secretary of agriculture, with bureaus under a superintendent of the state fair, a director of farmers' institutes, a livestock commissioner and the inspector of apiaries and nurseries.

Public Health—Under a salaried health commissioner and an unpaid state board of health, with a food inspection bureau under the food commissioner, with examining boards for physicians, pharmacists and dentists.

Labor and Mining—Under a commissioner of labor and two deputies, who should act as a board in adopting rules and regulations and in deciding appeals with bureaus of statistics, employment, inspection and compensation and a mining division under the state mining board.

Trade and Commerce—To include bureaus under a commission of corporations, a commissioner of banking, the insurance superintendent and the public utilities commission—the chairman of the public utilities commission to act as head of the department.

Department of Law—Under the attorney general, with provision for counsel and attorneys for particular departments to be appointed by the attorney general, with the consent of the governor.

Military Affairs—Continuing the present organization of the state militia.

In the judgment of the committee, the several election boards now provided by law should also be consolidated into a single board of elections; and this with the secretary of state and civil service commission would be outside of the main executive departments outlined.

The committee also recommends a revision of the laws relating to state contracts and to official reports, the latter to require reports from all state officers, boards, commissions and departments before the regular session of the general assembly, and to provide for a summary report to the state government to be prepared and carefully edited for publication in an official state manual or blue book.

The efficiency and economy committee was created by the forty-eighth general assembly and consisted of Senators Walter L. Maney, chairman; W. Duff Pierce, Logan Hay and Charles Hurlburt; Representatives Charles F. Byrne, William McKinley and John M. Rapp. The committee employed John A. Fairlie, professor of political science in the University of Illinois as director of its investigational work and it was he that prepared the report.

There are hundreds of people in this vicinity who have become accustomed to using a tin box in which to keep their valuables, who by using one of our SAFE DEPOSIT BOXES will find they are safer, strictly private and more satisfactory in every way. It requires two keys to unlock the box. The customer has one and the Bank the other, which is the master key. If you should lose your key, and some one else should find it, it would do them no good, because it would require the master key, which we hold before the box could be opened.

Social Activities

Petefish-Cooper Nuptials

The wedding of Miss Bernice Cooper and Mr. Aaron D. Petefish will take place Wednesday, April 21, according to announcement made Saturday at Miss Cooper's home in Concord. Twenty friends were there assembled and after a season of social converse and games, in which prizes were won by Miss Lora Petefish and Miss Flora Filson, the company adjourned to the dining room for an excellent two-course luncheon. Carnations, pink and white, and ferns adorned the table and hand painted place cards of clever design made complete the effect of artistic beauty. Piano music and the notes of a miniature bugle were heard in a room adjoining and the guests were startled by the appearance of a little girl in herald's attire with a heart-shaped bag upon her back which was filled with dainty scrolls. Over the signature of Daniel Cupid, the important event was announced. Miss Dorothy Ogle took the part of the herald.

The bride-to-be is well and favorably known. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Cooper and was reared and educated in Concord. The groom elect is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron W. Petefish of Litterberry and is a young man of uprightness and industry. He was born and reared in Litterberry.

Those present at this happy antenuptial event were Misses Flora Filson, Cecil Behler, Irene Valentine, Eva Gaddis, Mary Titus, Edna Filson, Leah Vorhees, Adella Bayless, Maudie Thorndyke, Evalie Petefish, Lora Petefish and Mrs. Robert Livsey, Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. M. "UNCLE RUBE" WELL RECEIVED BY LARGE ALEXANDER AUDIENCE

Four-Act Play by Charles Thompson Given by Competent Cast at Catholic Church—Proceeds Will Aid Baseball Team.

Excellent amateur work was done by the cast of "Uncle Rube" Saturday night when this four-act play by Charles Thompson was given in the parlors of the Alexander Catholic church before an audience, appreciative as well as large. Charles M. Strawn as Reuben Rodney was hero of the play and as the "justice of the peace, school trustee and master hand at swapping horses" he would have been hard to beat. Mrs. Strawn assisted in the direction of the play. All did their parts well and the success of the event is attested by the substantial proceeds, half of which go to the church and half to the Kaiser Merchants baseball club. A box supper was held after the performance.

Miss Alberta Hall and Miss Emily Kumble were piano accompanists. Between the acts there were given several musical numbers: Miss Lillian Kumble and Miss Katie Baders sang, and Chester Watred, accompanied on the piano by his mother, played a violin solo. The cast follows:

MRS. PRESTON WOOD UNDER- WENT SERIOUS OPERATION.

Dr. A. W. Bartlett Here From St. Louis on That Account—Condition Satisfactory.

Mrs. Preston Wood, Sr., underwent a serious operation at Our Savior's hospital Saturday morning, when Dr. Aurelius W. Bartlett, of St. Louis, removed a large tumor. Mrs. Wood is 83 years old, a fact which made the operation the more dreaded. Dr. Bartlett used only a local anesthetic and the operation was concluded in a little more than an hour's time. He came to the city Friday night enroute to his home in St. Louis after a brief visit in Rochester, Minn. He was met here by two of his assistants and the operation was performed at Our Savior's hospital. Mrs. Wood's condition last night was accounted very satisfactory.

Dr. Bartlett, who is a son of Dr. and Mrs. A. T. Bartlett of this city and a brother of Mrs. J. O. Vosseler, is a surgeon of great reputation. He has quite a staff of assistants at his offices in St. Louis, and is constantly consulted by physicians and surgeons from a large number of states. He is a graduate of Illinois college and finished in the class of 1892. Following his graduation he immediately began preparation for medical and surgical work, and has devoted himself to his profession with untiring energy and devotion since that time. He writes quite frequently for medical publications, and his scientific research work has won him a high place in his profession.

Dr. Bartlett was entertained at luncheon by Dr. P. C. Thompson and a dinner was given in his honor by Dr. Carl E. Black. Later he addressed the medical club.

Word has been received of the recent death of Fred Cole of Pontiac, Michigan. He was a conductor on the Grand Trunk railroad for many years. His daughters, Misses Berniah and Dollie have visited in the city a number of times and their friends here will be grieved to learn of the sad event. Bown.

Henry Bown died Saturday night at 6:20 o'clock at the residence of Frank Eades, 316 West Reed street. Mr. Bown had been afflicted all winter and during the months of January and February was very ill with pneumonia. He was convalescing in a gratifying manner when he took a relapse about six days ago and gradually grew worse until the end. Mr. Bown has just passed his 82d birthday and had always been of a rugged constitution. He was a man of unostentatious manner, always of a kind and helpful disposition. He was affiliated with Grace Methodist church. A great many years ago he conducted a grocery store on Lafayette avenue.

He was born at Bridgewater, England, March 4, 1837 and came to Winchester, Ill. when 15 years of age. He married Miss Elizabeth Barbon Balitho in 1867 and one son and three daughters preceded him

STATE HOSPITAL DISCHARGES

PATIENTS TAKING DRUG CURE

The Jacksonville State Hospital discharged Saturday twelve patients who have been taking treatment for the drug habit. Nine of the patients were from Springfield, two from Jacksonville and one from New Berlin. Most of them have been there about ten days, and considering the improvement they have made in that short time certainly speaks well for the institution which the state fosters for such afflicted people. Some of the patients have been users of drugs for a great many years.

WERE CLOSELY PURSUED BY FRESHMEN FOR HONORS.

Six Points Separate Leaders in Interclass Tournament—Prospects for Good Track Team at Illinois College.

The sophomore class won the interclass indoor meet which was held in the Armory last night, piling up a total of 41 points. The freshmen were close on their heels all evening and finished just six points behind the leaders. The juniors and Whipple were outdistanced by the other two classes.

Most of the events contested last night are not listed among the events in an outdoor track meet.

The meet served, however, to arouse considerable class spirit and to help get the men in good general physical condition for the coming out door athletic sports. It also proved that Illinois will have a sprinter and three high jumpers this spring who will help round out a strong track team. Campbell, the freshman sprinter, was off like a flash in the dash and in the running high jump he cleared 5 feet, 3 inches handsily and might have gone higher had he tried. Bale, a sophomore, showed good form in the same event and seems to have considerable ability. Allen's performance was creditable. For the sophomores Frisbie and Mitchell were strong point winners.

The events and winners:

25 yard dash—Campbell, Freshman, 1st; Helme, Freshman, 2nd; Stewart, Junior, 3rd.

Standing high jump—Dean, Sophomore, 1st; Reynolds, F., 2nd; Newberry, J., 3rd. Height 4 feet, 4 in.

Throwing medicine ball—Frisbie, S., 1st; Mitchell, S., 2nd; Thieband, W., 3rd. Distance 40 feet, 10 in.

Standing broad jump—Campbell, F., 1st; Reynolds, F., 2nd; Dean, S., 3rd. Distance, 9 feet, 1-4 in.

25 yard hurdle—Frisbie, S., 1st; Helme, F., 2nd; Stewart, J., 3rd.

Running high jump—Campbell, F., 1st; Bale, S., 2nd; Allen, W., 3rd.

Human race—Mitchell, Frisbie, S., 1st; Alford, Atchison, J., 2nd; Hill, Campbell, F., 3rd.

Wheelbarrow race—Pierce, Mitchell, S., 1st; Alford, Atchison, F., 2nd; Sooy, Land, W., 3rd.

Javelin—Alford, J., 1st; Hill, F., 2nd; Smith, J., 3rd. Distance, 117 feet, 9 inches.

Hoop race—Pierce, Davis, S., 1st; Sooy, Land, W., 2nd; Junior and Sophomore teams disqualified.

Total points: Sophomore 41; Freshman, 35; Juniors 13; Whipple 6.

Owing to the late hour at which the events were completed, the championship basketball game between the Freshman and Junior teams was postponed to next week.

Officials—Starter, W. T. Harmon; judges, Prof. Whisler, Prof. Harris, Fred Darr; Clerk of course, Elmer Lukeman.

COMING TO THE GRAND

In casting the Box Office Attractions Co.'s production of "The Thief", which will be shown at the Grand theatre on Monday, it was the desire of Mr. William Fox, president, to secure for the role of the frivolous and finally repentant wife an emotional actress, capable of plumbing the intricacies of the part; which calls for an artist of no ordinary talent. It runs the scale of the woman's nature from her but-terfly-like attitude toward life in the earlier scenes, to the great de-mentment when husband and wife face each other, and her deceptions fall from her like a garment and the high characterized man to whom she is mated learns what manner of woman she is and learning still for-gives. Miss Dorothy Donnelly, whose "Madame X", was without doubt one of the finest emotional in-terpretations within a decade, was Mr. Fox's final choice and her work in the photo-play version of "The Thief", in which Marguerite Illing-ton and Kyrie Bellew played for two years at Frohman's Lyceum Theatre, New York City, amply sus-tains the deep impression that Miss Donnelly has already made in parts calling for subtlety and a high in-terpretative genius.

Supporting Miss Donnelly, is Richard Buhler, a leading man of distinction and ability who has played many important parts in notable productions. Other well known people in the cast are Iva Shephard, Edgar Davenport, Harry Spangler and Geo. de Carlton.
